

Indian Lecturer Outlines Tribal Customs, Dances

Eagle Plume on Guest Night
Program of Woman's Club Wednesday

"Only three things count in evaluating Indian character," Charles Eagle Plume, Blackfoot Indian lecturer, dancer and college graduate, told members and guests of the Barrington Woman's club at its evening meeting and guest program presented at the Methodist church Wednesday. "A man must be brave, a speaker of perfect language and generous."

The Indian conception of the rights of man were best expressed in the constitution of the Iroquois confederacy, similar in thought to the Constitution of the U. S., he said. The European attitude toward man had been that of prince and serf; equality of the right to live fully was an Indian tradition.

"To study a primitive society is to study the beginnings of all others," he added, continuing with illustrations of the origin of sign language, of government, of clubs, and of the discipline of the young (which in Indian society is never physical punishment—an errand child is simply refused food and shelter with the tribe until he realizes his actions have been anti-social and he must behave or lose the benefits of companionship).

He stressed the position of women in Indian society where the oldest maternal grandmother is the head of each family.

Eagle Plume was garbed in Indian attire and used various authentic headaddresses as he executed tribal dances—the sunrise dance, eagle dance and sweet-heart dance. He concluded his lecture with a plea for greater tolerance between races and civilizations that the youth of each might achieve the highest state of intellectual development. The old biases, prejudices and arrogances—the voice of the medicine man predicting disaster, dire consequences—are heard too often."

Cook Registration Books to Be Open Dec. 6 to Jan. 20

Persons Who Failed to Enter
Names Have One More Opportunity

Under the new permanent registration act passed at the last session, no person will be allowed to vote in the future at a municipal election (other than a school or park district election) unless he has been registered. The act imposes certain duties upon the cities and village concerning registration.

Voters who failed to register on September 27 or October 5, 1937, may register with the village or city clerk from December 6, 1937, to January 20, 1938, and from May 2, 1938 to October 3, 1938 or with the county clerk from December 7, 1937 until the 28th day preceding the date of any election.

Three registration cards are made out, one going permanently to the county clerk, one remaining with the village or city clerk. The other set of registration cards is sent by the county clerk to precinct election officials at the time of state, county, and township elections. The triplicate cards are sent out by the city or village clerk for municipal elections.

The two sets used by the county clerk's office are arranged in accordance with the precinct lines fixed by the county board. The set retained by the village or city clerk is to be arranged in accordance with the precinct lines which the city or village adopts for its own elections.

When a voter moves, even within the same city or village, his transfer of registration must be made through the county clerk. Complaints of illegal registration must be made to the county clerk, and after a hearing at which the complainant must be present, an illegal registration may be stricken.

The dog owned by Fred Tagael, Washington street, which was held for observation last week after it bit three persons, died at the Barrington Animal hospital Thursday afternoon. An examination of the head by the state health department revealed that rabies were present.

Few Hunting Fines Levied This Year

A dearth of prosecutions for hunting violations during the cock pheasant hunting season which closed Monday was noticeable locally this year with only two hunters found out court.

Police Magistrate A. D. Church fined Albert and Joseph Opets, both of Chicago, $5 and costs apiece when they appeared Saturday on charges of hunting in the Dear Grove forest preserve.

Those were the only hunting violations heard here. A recent change in the game code which reduced the fees of constables, heretofore active during hunting seasons in prosecuting game law violators, was said to be responsible for the sudden decrease.

Tells About Pianos

Child's Reading Needs to Be Supervised, P.-T. A. Is Told

Miss Elsie Wygant, principal of Barrington Country Day School spoke on "Character Building Through Books" at the monthly P. T. A. meeting held in the high school auditorium Tuesday evening. Parents, Miss Wygant said, are often too complacent in regard to the kind of books their children are reading. She expressed a definite need for parent supervision in the selection of reading material. Quoting from "Education of Children" by Alfred Adler, Miss Wygant said, "Every child has a fundamental pattern which cannot be made or tremendously changed but can be molded," and it is her firm conviction that the selection of the literature will be a determining influence upon the molding of the character. She pointed out further that children are serious at heart and, if we offer the best, their intellects will respond. In addition to Miss Wygant's address there was a review of the life and ideals of Horace Mann by Kenneth Frye and Edith Olsen and an exhibit of student contributions along the line of book reviews and available literature showing efforts made by Barrington school to build character through books.

Return Open Verdict in Fatality of Last Gieske Crash Victim

An open verdict of accidental death was returned Monday night by a Kane county coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Velma Frautnick, 22 years old, Lincoln school teacher, who died at her home in Elgin October 28, from injuries received September 11 in an automobile accident near Melrose Park which also claimed the life of Raymond F. Gieske of Barrington.

Miss Frautnick was a member of the Gieske party the evening of the fatal collision in which the driver of the other car, John De Lap of Maywood, was also fatally injured.

Inquests in the deaths of Mr. Gieske and De Lap were completed 12 days ago in Melrose Park and a transcript of the record was read to the jury Monday night at the Frautnick inquest. In its verdict of the Frautnick case, the jury found that De Lap's automobile failed to stop for a traffic sign at the intersection of Lake street and Wolf road and ran into Mr. Gieske's machine.

Willard Grabenkort of Barrington and Miss Helen Nelson of Park Ridge were also in the Gieske party and were injured in the crash.

Prowlers Flee in Exchange of Shots

A bold attempt to burglarize the Krone service station on West Northwest highway early Tuesday morning was frustrated when the two prowlers were driven away by shotgun fire.

Members of the family had just retired when they were aroused by unusual sounds outside. Investigating they heard the glass in the front door being broken out. One shot was fired through the door to frighten away the intruder who ran to a car parked a short distance away.

As they were pulling away one of the two men in the car fired two shots, neither of which hit the station. Going outside, the family found the telephone wires had been cut at the building and an attempt had been made to sever the electric service.

School District Board Votes for $30,000 in Bonds

Take Action Monday Night to Pay Outstanding Claims
in Building Fund

Members of the board of education of school district No. 4 Monday evening approved a resolution calling for the issuance of $30,000 in bonds to cover outstanding claims against the building fund.

The resolution was presented by E. W. Flagg who moved for its adoption. The motion was seconded by E. J. Miller. The outstanding claims covered the finishing of the school addition and were mainly for private contract work, such as plumbing, plastering, electrical and heating work.

Due to a ruling last June, the board of education found it necessary to change the method of funding the project and, although approximately $70,000 was on hand in the general fund when the issue was proposed a month ago, voted in favor of floating the bonds. School authorities ruled that the board could not use the funds available in the general fund for the building project.

It has been proposed to reduce the levy for next year and consequently lower the tax rate to meet the increase that would be brought about by the issuance of bonds.

Tentative plans based on future estimated costs of operation call for a reduction of $18,000 next year and the annual levy and $10,000 the succeeding year. If possible another $10,000 would be slashed off the third year, it was reported.

Red Cross Drive Continues; Boys and Girls Assist

Winners of Village Canvass to Receive Cash
Awards

Eight school children canvassed the village for Red Cross contributions Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the direction of Mrs. R. D. Wells, chairman of the local drive. Cash prizes had been offered to the pairs making the largest collections.

Wayne Rutledge and Boyd Miller won the boys' division with collections totaling $40. Beth Sears and Dorothy Kuckuck, girl winners, brought in $29.

Barrington's annual quota is about $3000 to Mrs. Wells and if that sum is to be reached this year, local residents will need to give more freely.

Members of Mrs. Wells' committee are stationed at the First National bank building, taking memberships during banking hours. The drive started Nov. 11 and will continue until Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Richard Drover III, whose husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Drover of Barrington, is prominently mentioned in the Champaign News-Gazette (this week) as having won a prize in the Champaign III, in reference to a painting by her on exhibit in the fine arts gallery of the department of interior building in Washington, D. C.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Drover are graduates of the University of Illinois where the former local student majored in architecture. His wife was an art student.

They are residing in Chicago where Mrs. Drover has completed several federal art projects during the past month. One of her sketches, which she won for the Cook county hospital and another, which is still unfinished, is to be placed in Miller school in Evanston.

Famous Adoptions Among 3,000 Cases Filed With Flynn

More than 3,000 adoption petitions have been filed with County Clerk Michael J. Flynn during the last three years. It was announced today, among them more outstanding cases than have ever before appeared in the history of the county.

James Walker, New York's famous ex-mayor, Al Jolson and his wife, Ruby Keeler, George Burns and the inimitable Gracie Allen of radio fame are some of the prominent personalities which have made the Flynn administration a standard for important adoption cases in Cook county—not forgetting such headlines as the sensational Horst and Richter suits.

In December, 1934, Mayor James J. Walker and his wife, Violet, adopted seven-week old Baby Boy Parker from the Evanston Cradle and renamed the child James John Walker, 11. Al Jolson and Ruby picked out Baby Boy Hamilton, also seven weeks old, from the Cradle in May, 1935, and the tot became Al Jr., according to the records.

Anna and Allen filed a petition with Mr. Flynn to adopt Baby Boy Johnson, eleven weeks old, from the Evanston Cradle in October, 1935 and Ronald John became a playmate for Sandra Jean, adopted just a year before from the same institution when she was just five weeks of age.

Cook county's most recent outstanding adoption case when Miss Della Staskis asked the return of her two and one-half year old daughter, raised from infancy by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richter. Custody of the child was granted the Richters in early October.

Indict On WPA Extortion Charge

Ten WPA officials were charged with using the power of their office for personal gain by selling jobs under their control in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury in Chicago Monday.

The alleged acts of extortion took place between Feb. 1, 1935 and June 1, 1937, while those under indictment were in charge of works progress administration projects in the suburban area. Several of those listed by indictment were connected with projects in Barrington, although it was not determined whether any of the alleged acts were committed here.

Convictions on the indictment, which contains separate counts charging extortion and bribery, would be punishable by maximum prison sentence of two years and a $10,000 fine on each count. Victims of the plot were destitute workers who were first put on the WPA rolls at $65 a month. These men, the indictment stated, were then solicited to pay their bosses substantial portions of increases given them when they were reclassified as timekeepers, carpenters and other skilled types of labor, promotions that paid from $175 to $200 a month.

Those in charge of local projects and named in the indictment were as follows: Thomas J. McEligott, 610 Mulford street, Evanston, area supervisor in Cook county outside Chicago; Earle R. Peterson, 4219 Melrose street, Chicago, project engineer; Ralph Budd, 4133 N. Winchester avenue, Chicago, project engineer.

Mother of Mrs. E. Hughes Dies Here; Burial in Kentucky

Mrs. Ellen A. Woodcock, wife of Rt. Bishop Charles Edward Woodcock of Louisville, Ky., and mother of Mrs. Ernest Hughes, residing on Brinker road in Barrington township, died Saturday evening at the Hughes estate home where she and her husband had been guests for the past several months. She died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Woodcock was born September 11, 1857, in New York City. She and Bishop Woodcock came to Barrington several months ago for a visit at the home of their daughter, where she was taken ill. Due to her condition, she remained in Barrington until her death.

The body was shipped to Louisville Sunday and funeral services were held Sunday afternoon with burial in Cave Hill cemetery in Louisville. Members of the family accompanied the body there.

In addition to her husband and Mrs. Hughes, she is survived by another daughter in Louisville.

Poisoned Arrows

It is extremely doubtful whether any poison of a chemical nature was ever used on arrows, by Indians in North America, says a writer in the Washington Star. On the other hand, the use of magical poisons was very prevalent. Certain plants and animals which were supposed to contain power of a deadly nature were utilized for this purpose. Actually, as far as can be determined, none of these substances had any poisonous effect whatever. Ordinary infection of arrow wounds was frequently interpreted by the early explorers as the result of poison, and the tales of the Indians who described the use of magical poisons as indicated found their way into print. The venom of rattlesnakes was said to have been occasionally used by some of the Southwestern tribes, but inasmuch as rattlesnake venom loses its potency very soon upon exposure, it is likely that that efficacy was based on the same idea of sympathetic magic rather than actual chemical effect.

Orioles Called "Hannegrets"
Orioles are called "hannegrets" because they place their nests on limbs in such a manner that they hang down. As the nests sway in the wind, we may imagine that the baby birds are being rocked to sleep.

"Father of the Roses"
Gul-Baba's house in Zaimmond street of old Budapest stood for 429 years and had grown to look like a toy wedged between ever-growing buildings. Gul-Baba, the Turkish holy man, is still revered by Mohammedans who travel long distances to visit his grave on the Rozsadam (Rose Hill). He had become a legendary figure for his efforts to save the Hungarians in the cruel times of the Turkish rule and was also known as "the father of the roses," having made a bower of roses out of his house and garden, which gave the quarter its name of Rose Hill. He is believed to have planted the first rose in Hungary. When he died the Emperor Mustafa, it was said, went to Budapest to be one of the pallbearers at his funeral.

"Shop and Mail Early" Is Plea of Postal Unit

Releases Bulletin Covering Christmas Season Delivery Service

"Shop and Mail Early" is the request issued by the United States post office department in a bulletin released this week in reference to Christmas mails. Parcels and mail for foreign countries should be mailed now.

The department annually seeks to instruct the general public in necessary procedure for mailing services during the holiday season and issued a bulletin covering a number of important items for consideration. It was stated that the volume of mail is increased approximately 300 per cent at Christmas time each year, and for that reason early mailing is necessary to maintain service without congestion.

There will be no mail delivery Christmas Day, Saturday, December 25.

To insure delivery of mail and parcels before Christmas Day, the department asked that they be placed in the mails at least a week or 10 days before, according to the distance.

Following is a partial list of facts contained in the bulletin: all parcels must be securely packed and wrapped, using heavy cardboard and boxes for bulky items; articles easily broken must be plainly marked fragile; parcels having perishable articles shall be marked "perishable" and packed in suitable container, according to contents; do not mail Christmas greeting cards in red, green or other dark-colored envelopes, or in very small envelopes; no parcel may be more than 100 inches in length and girth not exceed 70 pounds in weight.

Additional information on mailing dates to foreign countries and types of mailings may be secured at the local post office, L. B. Paddock, postmaster, reported.

Hunter Killed When Gun Is Accidentally Discharged in Fall

Byron Poe, 35 years old, residing between Woodstock and Wonder Lake in McHenry county, became the first hunting fatality of the year when he was accidentally shot and killed by a companion's gun southeast of Woodstock Saturday morning.

Poe, accompanied by two fellow workers from the Almet Die Casting and Manufacturing Co. at Woodstock, Richard Tuttle and George Byson, started out hunting together Saturday morning and were searching for game on the John Sheridan farm when the fatality occurred.

Poe and Tuttle were walking together with Byson a short distance away. Becoming entangled in some brush, Poe stumbled and fell, and in doing so fell against Tuttle who also dropped. Tuttle's gun broke at the breech when he fell and accidentally discharged. Poe was struck between the eyes by the shot and was killed outright. Health officials from throughout the country, international dignitaries and state government officials will be among the principal speakers at the ceremonies in Wilmington, Delaware, on November 24, marking the 30th anniversary of the first Christmas seal sale.

The center of activities will be the unveiling of a plaque to Miss Emily P. Bissell, who, back in 1907, originated the idea of selling Christmas seals in this country as a means of financing work in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. The plaque will be unveiled on the main building at the Brandwynne sanatorium, on which site a little wooden shack cared for tuberculous children a generation ago.

It was this shack that Miss

Bissell wanted to keep open and, when lack of funds threatened its existence, she went out and sold $2,000 worth of seals. From this small beginning, the tuberculosis movement in the United States grew rapidly. Miss Bissell not only saved the Brandwynne shack, but its activities expanded and the idea of her seal sale spread throughout the world.

He collapsed while at work two days previous and was taken to his home in Elgin. Removed to the Sherman hospital the same day, blood transfusions were given but he failed to rally.

Elgin June 25, 1914 and graduated from Elgin high school in 1932. For the last year he was employed at Barrington, where his sudden death came as a shock to his employer and co-workers, who held him in high regard.

Oxalic Acid in Plants
Oxalic acid is found in a wide variety of American plants, but seldom in quantities sufficient to cause illness. Leaves, not stems, of the garden rhubarb occasionally cause enough of it to cause trouble. The most important oxalic acid plant, economically, in the United States is the grasswood that grows abundantly in the arid regions of the West. Sheep often are injured by it.

Australian Love Birds
Budgerigars are Australian parakeets famed for brilliantly colored feathers and keen intelligence. Almost unknown in America, they are popular as pets in England and their native land. They are called Australian love birds because of their affection for their mates.

"Life Begins in College" Week-End Feature at Catlow

"Dead End" Playing; Bobby Breen Here Saturday in "Make a Wish"

As a Broadway stage play "Dead End" was a smash hit, packing 'em in for two solid years. Later it was cheered from coast to coast.

Last night Samuel Goldwyn's great motion picture based on the powerful Sidney Kingsley drama of life in a city street opened at the Catlow theatre, with Sylvia Hickey and Joel McCrea heading an impressive cast.

A show within a show is enacted in "Directing" Bobby Breen's starring musical romance, "Make a Wish," coming to the Catlow, Saturday.

The scene depicts a boy's summer camp in Maine, and the 150 youngsters in the picture are put in an amateur performance of the Van Winkle. They are accompanied by a special glee club and an orchestra organized by the youngsters themselves.

As added entertainment, on a near-by set Leon Errol and Heary Armata are staging a non-sensical scene, Errol's rubber legs being featured. Basil Rathbone and Marion Claire play the romantic leads in the production.

Tony Martin is featured in the important supporting cast of "Life Begins in College," a musical hit starring the Ritz Brothers, coming to the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

Formerly an orchestra leader and stage and radio singer, Martin began his theatrical career while he was a student at St. Mary's college.

A good cast and top-notch Zane Grey story combine in the making of "Thunder Trail," which comes Tuesday to the Catlow. The picture features Gilbert Roland and numbers in its cast Charles Bickford, Marsha Hunt, J. Carrol Naish, Monte Blue, Barlowe Borland and James Craig.

The story of "Thunder Trail" opens with the massacre of settlers in a western wagon train, led by the father of two young boys. The boys are the only survivors of the train. One escapes the outlaw and is found and adopted by Naish, a Mexican prospector. His brother is carried off by the outlaw leader, who brings him up as his own son. Gilbert Roland and James Craig play the roles of the sons in the later life.

"Sophie Lang" Goes West, plays the double feature bill Tuesday with "Thunder Trail."

Suburban Building Has Sharp Increase Over Last Month

If suburban building in the Chicago region reacted to the stock market slump, this is not apparent in the total amount of permits issued in the month of October, which reached the surprising sum of $3,239,932, an increase of three-quarter million dollars, or 31 per cent, over the September total of $2,482,834, according to the survey released Saturday by Greenebaum Sons Investment company. October also shows a gain of 41 per cent over the corresponding month of 1936 in which the permits issued amounted to only $2,301,638.

The October increase of 31 per cent in the suburban region is the more remarkable in view of the fact that building in Chicago itself fell off 48 per cent, the October total in the city being $1,356,980—as compared with $2,664,445 in September. It may be further noted that building in the suburban towns exceeded that in the city by $1,882,950.

The stock market seems to have had its effect, however, on home building, for the October survey shows a sharp drop in the number of new homes for which permits were taken out. Communities surveyed report permits issued for only 135 homes to coal $1,123,716, while in September 211 new homes were started and these will cost $1,424,392. But, it may be noted, the falling off in the number of homes is much greater proportionately than the decline in the volume of permits issued. While construction was started on a much smaller number of homes, those that are being built are on an average much more expensive.

Evergreen Care

By the MASTER GARDENER

The most common type of winter injury to evergreens is not caused by low temperatures and the freezing of the tissue but by the drying out of the leaf tissue because of excessive evaporation of water from the foliage, due to the action of sun and wind.

An important precaution against winter injury to evergreens, therefore, is to soak the ground around evergreens thoroughly in late autumn, just before the ground freezes, to insure the tree going into the winter period with a sufficient supply of moisture.

Allow the water to run from the hose around the foot of the tree for several hours as to saturate the ground to a good depth. Be sure to water well those evergreens that are planted around the foundations of buildings.

Newly planted evergreens, in locations exposed to prevailing winds, or to intense sunlight, should also be protected during winter by windbreaks of burlap or evergreen boughs, and by mulches applied after the ground has frozen.

Prepares Historical Article on Early Barrington Township

An interesting historical article of Barrington Center church was prepared and read at the recent annual meeting of the Barrington Center church maintenance society.

The article was written by Jay Waterman of Elgin, former resident of Barrington and brother of the late P. L. Waterman, and was as follows:

James F. Miller and William Van Orsdal were the first white settlers in Barrington township, taking up claims in section 16 in 1834 in what was known afterwards as Miller's Grove. There were about 500 Indians in the grove at the time but they finally moved westward. Mr. Miller and Mr. Van Orsdal, after being known that section 16 was to be turned over to the school, took up claims in section 17.

The Methodist Episcopal church at Barrington Center was organized in 1840 in the school house with 6 members and John C. Allen, class leader, and P. N. Gould, steward. Other members were: Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Gould, Mrs. Sarah Miller, wife of Alva Miller, and her son, E. N. Miller.

In 1853 a church structure, 34 by 52 feet, was erected at a cost of $2,500. Membership increased until in 1858 the total was 35 but in 1859 the number had dropped to six. E. N. Miller, first pastor, was the original six.

Previous to 1841 all houses erected in this town were made of logs but during this year S. W. Kingsley built the first frame house, 14 by 20 feet in size.

In April of 1840 the town organized in the school house south of Miller's Grove. William Adams was chosen moderator and Jerome W. Kingsley, clerk. For many years the elections were held at the William H. Otis farm until moved to Barrington in 1869 where elections are still being held.

Do You Know?

That the first reaper was on exhibition on the Benjamin Irick farm, now owned by Clare Healey, some time in the late 50's? It was drawn by four horses and said to be a horse killer.

That Edwin S. Sabin, the veteran thrasher, ran a machine for upwards of 25 years?

That J. W. Seymour visited France in 1832 and imported 15 head of Percheron horses?

That S. W. Kingsley shipped the first milk from Dundee to Chicago at one time hauled oats to Chicago with ox team for 10 cents a bushel? Last, but not least, he had the largest wife in town, Mrs. Wally Kingsley, weighing over 300 pounds.

That C. S. Dunning and Sons bought and sold the bulk of the cattle, sheep and hogs in this section of the country for many years? Many times driving cattle overland to Chicago to the Union stockyards.

Last, and I trust not least, that Rev. T. E. Ream has preached at over northern Illinois for over 40 years.

"The Child's First School Is the Family"—Froebel

Issued by National Kindergarten Assn. 8 W. 40th St. New York

"Watch Their Homework"

By GRACE ARCHBOLD

Whether or not the parent believes in homework for grade pupils, if such work is a school requirement, the child should be helped to adjust himself to meet it successfully.

"I'm so disappointed, Allan," remarked Mrs. Butler to her husband one evening as they looked over their little son's school report. "You know, Jack has brains. I did hope he would rank higher than this. His marks are shocking. I spoke to his teacher about it, and she said that he never seems to have prepared his homework. Do you think Miss Roland is really efficient? The school is often very ready to blame the homework when a child has a poor standing. I am inclined to think it may be poor teaching. I send him off so regularly to his studies. Of course, he is sensitive and easily discouraged. He may lose heart when a difficulty presents itself."

"I wonder," said her husband thoughtfully, "if the trouble does not lie just there. Before we blame the teacher, how would it be if we watch him at his homework? Let us see if he is really doing it as he should."

"Perhaps you are right. I noticed that he was fidgeting about a great deal last night, but concluded he had finished his work."

The following evening Mrs. Butler sat where she would watch Jack's system of studying.

First, he picked up his arithmetic, and for a time all went well. Then he came to a problem that was evidently not so easy. He made one or two attempts at it, frowned and grumbled and finally tossed the book aside in favor of his spelling.

This, too, he was quite happy about for a time. He shut his eyes in concentration and recited the words. Two words proved to be stumbling blocks. Again and again he glanced at his list and found he was making slight mistakes in them. Instead of mastering them, he put away his spelling book. "Have another look at it in the morning," he murmured to himself.

Next in order came his geography. Here he became completely muddled over the rivers in Africa and did not even trouble to trace them on the map. "Never mind, I guess I can pull through. I know all about the River Nile. The others are too hard to bother with," was his objection.

Bedtime came and he had finished nothing.

Later on Mrs. Butler reported to her husband:

"Just what I feared," he said. "He is like a soldier who quits under fire. Directly something hard comes along he gives up—a very serious fault. We must check it without delay, or Jack will not amount to very much. I was exactly the same way and hardly a day passes that I do not feel thankful to my mother for her help. Gently but firmly she insisted on my finishing one subject before attempting another. She taught me that it was unmanly to shirk the hard tasks."

"She did not scold. Lessons were like a wonderful game. In those days I was very fond of stories about giants. She made use of this and converted a puzzling problem into a giant to be overthrown. I shall never forget my joy when I accomplished something I had been tempted to lay aside. I had conquered a giant. Today if I am inclined to follow the line of least resistance and just let things go, I think of those giants."

"Why, Allan!" exclaimed his wife, "I did not realize there was so much at stake. It is something more than high marks. It is character formation."

"Yes. We cannot leave all the responsibility to teachers. Without the self-sacrificing cooperation of the parents the schools can do but little. We must set Jack on the right path with his homework. I am confident we shall soon see definite improvement."

To Present Junior Play Two Nights, November 19-20

The Junior class of the Barrington high school will present "New Fires" by Charles Quimby Murdette, at the school auditorium Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20, under the direction of Miss Georgina White.

"New Fires" is the portrayal of family life, with its joys and its problems, treated in a modern and realistic manner. Good humor and some sound common sense are mingled together in this three-act comedy.

Stephen Santry, an author, feels that members of his family have lost their grasp on fundamental values and plans to take them down in the Missouri Ozarks to a farm which he has inherited from an eccentric old uncle. What happens when the family arrives is something that nobody can afford to miss.

Members of the cast are as follows:

St. Anne Parochial Students Preparing Book Week Program

Book week, November 13 to 26, is being observed by pupils of St. Anne parochial school who are preparing a play "A Day in a Book Clinic" and a radio skit, "Evolution of the Book." Members of the intermediate grades, fourth, fifth and sixth, are preparing the play while the seventh and eighth grades are arranging the radio skit.

The radio skit was broken down into topics and committees assigned for their preparation. Research work was done from the new set of encyclopedias recently given the school library by the Catholic Women's club of Barrington.

Following is the list of topics and the committees in charge: "Tradition and Early Records," John Malone and Jack Roth; "Picture Writing," Gene Kampert and James McKoon; "Development of Alphabet," Kathryn Mountain and Rosemary McCabe; "Illuminated Manuscripts," Jeanne Sibley, Peggy Bockelman and Irene McCabe; "Printed Books," Henry Gundlach, John Hein and James Hollister. The topic "Writing," was broken down into two divisions with James Oriskany doing "Materials Used in Writing" and William Jira doing "Styles of Writing."

It was originally planned to hold a public exhibit this week but, due to a conflict with other activities, the book week program has been postponed until Wednesday afternoon, November 24. It will be held in the parochial school auditorium and will start at 2 o'clock. Parents of the pupils and the general public have been invited to the program. The play and radio skit will be presented then.

An exhibit of art posters is being completed and will be on display in the music room. It was reported. The room will be made over into a library and will feature a book house prepared by the lower grades on nursery rhymes.

The pupils visited the Barrington public library Wednesday afternoon in conjunction with book study.

1930 Census Report Cards Distributed

At the close of postal delivery Tuesday, 1930 unemployment report cards were distributed to every dwelling in the vicinity of the Barrington post office, L. I. Paddock, postmaster, reported. In some instances, more than one card was left at the dwelling, increasing the total over the number of homes actually served.

Cards may still be obtained from any village or rural carrier, or from the post office. After Saturday no more cards will be distributed and those not returned then for compilation at Washington, D. C.

The report cards indicate information requested by an act of the last congress to determine actual unemployment in the country. Information received will be used only to prepare the census and case histories will not be used or released for public inspection it was stated.

Rat Killing Drive Starts Next Week

A "banquet" to the rats in Lake county takes place November 23, according to farm adviser, H. C. Gilkerson. Recently prepared bait, that is available at a number of distribution points throughout the country, have been pouring in the past few weeks and, with several hundred farms and as many premises in towns thoroughly baited, this campaign will result in a marked reduction in the rat population.

"People who have an infestation of rats and have not requested the prepared bait do so Friday or Saturday at the farm bureau office. Many thousands of dollars worth of food and property will be saved if everyone having an infestation of these pests co-operates by applying an effective method of control," stated Mr. Gilkerson.

Then comes light pink at around 66 per cent, yellow at 57 per cent and flesh color at 51 per cent.

Buff and light gray also test at 51 per cent, while light green and aluminum gray rate at 45 and 41 per cent, respectively. Lower in the scale come light blue and sage green with a percentage of 38.

Dark red reflects only 15 per cent of the light that strikes its surface, while dark green and dark blue soak up all but 9 and 8 per cent of the light that hits them. Black, at the bottom of the list, is rated close to zero in its reflecting qualities.

Glove Makers Shave Hides

Milady's gloves must be delicate, thin and flexible. Mere man can stand heavier materials and is not so particular about whether the fit is skin tight or not. But nature does not make animals' hides of uniform thickness and it is necessary for glove manufacturers to "shave" the tanned hides to uniform thickness to the desired degree. Ordinary grinding is one thing, but high finishing is another, and extreme accuracy is required. The least visible in the room would ruin a hide. This might not seem to be such a problem until one realizes the size of a hide. A machine meets these requirements without any difficulty.

American Agriculture Old

American agriculture is far older than that of Europe. As this involves crop culture, one might quote O. F. Cook, United States Department of Agriculture, writing in the Journal of Heredity: "Biology shows that the system of agriculture was indigenous in America, since American plants were used, and also as indications of the great antiquity of agriculture in America. Such evidence comes from comparing the cultivated species of plants with their nearest wild relatives. Such comparisons in America show many cases of wide divergence, so wide, in fact, that it has not been possible to identify with certainty the wild type of several of the most important species, as corn, tobacco, beans, peanuts, potatoes and tomatoes."

How Lightning Affects Trees

Although lightning frequently strikes trees, there is usually no damage to the trees or else the injury is limited to the path of the electrical discharge, occasionally stripping off a narrow piece of bark or splitting the trunk or limb. However, in rare cases the lightning may be accompanied by St. Elmo's fire which gives a flaming or brush discharge from every twig and leaf. In such cases the tree usually dies within a few days or, if the St. Elmo's fire should miss part of the tree, it may kill the greater part and several years may elapse before the remainder of the tree succumb.

Peiping Once Cambulao

Ages ago Peiping was known as Cambulao. Later it became the "Purple Imperial City," or Peking, which means "northern capital." The latter name hung on longest. But in 1924, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces swept up from the south, not only captured Peking, but took the seat of the government from Nanjing, says the Washington Post. So, as Peking was no longer the "northern capital," the city's name was changed, this time to Peiping. The meaning of that is ironic. For Peiping means "city of northern peace!"

Surprise on 50th Anniversary

A bride and groom of 50 years ago repeated the vows of their marriage service in a double, delighted ceremony with a bride and groom of today at St. Paul church Wednesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt of Barrington celebrated their golden wedding anniversary by again pledging their troth and their granddaughter, Miss Ruth Wiedenbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wiedenbeck, became the bride of Gordon Dablow of Thief River Falls, Minn. Rev. Hermann Koenig officiated.

The Brandts read their golden anniversary service after which the young people came to the altar banked with white chrysanthemums and palms. Mrs. Brandt wore brown velvet of the same shade as that which had trimmed the gown she had worn fifty years earlier and a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Wiedenbeck, lovely in a white velvet wedding gown and a finger tip veil, carried a bridal bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Her sister, Miss Margaret, served as her only attendant. E. D. Bradle of Barrington was best man.

A wedding reception in the church parlors, attractively decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, followed the ceremony after which the young couple left on a short honeymoon trip. The bride's going away ensemble was of green with brown accessories. The young couple will make their home in Barrington.

A dinner for members of the immediate families was held at the Brandt home Wednesday noon, but more than 200 relatives and friends from this vicinity and neighboring communities were guests at the double wedding and reception. Mrs. Brandt was 71 years old in October and Mr. Brandt is celebrating his 77th birthday today. Both are in good health as is Mrs. Brandt's mother, Mrs. Johanna Krueger, 92, who was among the guests at the festivities Wednesday. Four generations were represented by Mrs. Krueger, Mrs. Brandt, Mrs. Wiedenbeck and Mrs. Dablow.

Attend Reunion

Ruth Miller, Mary Jean and Betty McClure attended a reunion of children who had attended Camp Hastings near Lake Villa last summer, held at the Irving Park Y. M. C. A. Saturday. Group swimming was followed by a magician's act, assembly singing and the serving of refreshments. Each child was given a pencil engraved with the name Camp Hastings as a souvenir of the reunion.

Matrons on Clock Dial

When you see a grandfather clock always look at the dial to discover if the old clockmaker expressed himself in some ancient saw. Most of those common on English clocks, are in Latin. One insisted that "Time can do no wrong," to which some wag had added, "But wrong can be done at any time." Some of the clocks were intended for certain people like that which said, "By Time all things are produced and judged." Another in Latin quoted, "Time is the soul of business."

"The Devil's" Bridge

"The Devil's" Bridge, over the River Mynach, near Aberystwyth in Wales, was built by the Good Monks, but superstition has long attributed the work to the devil himself, because of the water rushes of the mighty chasm. Near Bowes is the famous God's Bridge, which introduces the massive slabs so characteristic of the medieval bridges in Devonshire, Dartmoor and Exmoor. These are typical of the venerable structures breathing the history of England.

Case of John Emyan's Death

In the summer of 1898 John Emyan undertook to plead the cause of a son with an angry father, and at length prevailed on the old man not to disinherit his boy. This good work cost him his life. He had to ride through heavy rain and came drenched to his lodging when he was seized with a violent fever and died in a few days.

Bicycle Struck by Auto, Boy Escapes Serious Injury

Marilyn Krufus, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Krufus, residing in Barrington township near Sutton, narrowly escaped serious injury last Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding on Higgins road was struck by a passing automobile.

The youth was hurled 25 feet away from the road by the impact and his bicycle was completely wrecked. He was badly bruised and shaken up but no broken bones were suffered, it was stated. The driver of the car, whose name was not learned, was reported to be from Chicago.

Illinois Corn Yield Highest Since 1866

Illinois corn yield at 46 bushels per acre is the highest since crop estimating records began in 1866 and the crop is of very good quality, according to the November 1st joint report of the Illinois and federal departments of agriculture. This state is one of the outstanding corn areas in the country this season. The U. S. corn yield and total production is only moderately above the five-year (1932-1936) average, due mainly to varying drought damage from Texas northward to the Canadian border. The state soybean crop is large and of high quality. The yield of cowpeas is about average. Both corn and soybean yields per acre are reported somewhat higher than on October 1st.

The outlook for all late crops in the state with the exception of potatoes was maintained or improved during October. Farm work was retarded to some extent by rain interruptions but made fair progress. Corn husking was about 40 per cent and soybean threshing about 60 per cent completed, with fruit and vegetable crops largely secured by November 1st. Fall pasture condition is below average, however, stubble and other range feed is now available where needed to supplement short pasture growth.

Early Aerial Gliding

History records a number of partially successful attempts at aerial gliding in Europe in the Sixteenth century.

Pair—Two Do not use "a pair of" when all you mean is two. A pair refers to two things used together, equal or suited to each other. It is not a synonym of the word two. We talk of a pair of lungs, a pair of deuces, a pair of lovers. A cow and a postage-stamp are two objects, but they are not a pair of anything. A pair of twins would indicate four children.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Joos Ballet Will Give Single Show in Chicago Sunday

When the world-famous Joos European ballet is presented by Harry Zeller at the Civic Opera House Sunday afternoon, November 21, in their only Chicago appearance until 1939, their program will feature four of the outstanding dance creations of their repertoire.

The most famous of these is the prize-winning work, "The Green Table." This is a mordant satire upon the follies and tragic humor of international diplomacy. In it, Kurt Joos, the creator and artistic director, sets forth his most convincing arguments for world peace in terms that cannot miss their point. Dance history has been made by this work, and history itself is recorded in its eight swift scenes. There is no written scenario, no voice is heard; yet so vivid and direct is the method of impression that the immediate impression is truly gripping.

The "Seven Heroes," a ballet which expresses in pantomime language the hilarious exploits of one of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy-tales, will be performed for the first time in Chicago. The vivid and moving "Impressions of a Big City" and the gay, care-free and entrancing "Ball in Old Vienna" are the other featured numbers of this brilliant company of thirty dance acrobats.—Adv.

LET'S ABOLISH CHILD LABOR

The Kentucky state court of appeals apparently has written "finis" to the proposed constitutional youth control amendment, put forward as an attempt to abolish child labor. The Kentucky court said that the state legislature could not withdraw and cancel its actions in 1926 and 1934 rejecting the amendments by adopting a new resolution in 1937 accepting it.

In short, the court said that once a state legislature had registered its views on a constitutional amendment, that action was binding until a new amendment was submitted to it by congress. Seventeen states, far more than enough to block the youth control amendment, already have filed formal notices of rejection with the federal government.

One objection to the amendment was that it would put vast control over all persons under 18 into the hands of congress. Thus a flat national standard might be fixed by congress without regard to local conditions, such as the need for a farmer to let his boy milk the cows.

The remaining and best method is this: Let congress adopt a statute forbidding shipment from one state to another of goods produced in violation of the anti-child labor laws of either state.

Then let the states which have no child labor laws enact them; let those which have laws improve them. It won't be long until everybody who hopes to reach the national market will have to comply with the highest standards. And child labor, which is getting more rare every day, will become a thing of the past.

If we don't do something like that, we may have to sit around 16 more years waiting for the states to ratify another constitutional amendment, only to find that we have got to start all over again.

ONE FOR RIPLEY

A curious and perhaps unprecedented situation has arisen in San Francisco where two great publicly owned bridges spanning the bay have been built recently. Before the day of the bridges, San Francisco commuters were served for two generations by a picturesque ferry system which carried passengers and automobiles from the city to all other bay points. The ferry system, privately owned and publicly regulated, represents private investment, and must pay its own way in addition to heavy taxes. The new competition of the tax-free bridges caused the ferries to lose the great bulk of their passengers. Finally they sought and obtained permission to reduce their fares from 50c to 30c a trip.

Now the publicly owned and tax-exempt bridges complain that the low ferry rates are cutting into the bridge business and they are asking that the ferries be forced by law to raise their charges.

To quote the San Francisco Chronicle: "We are familiar with instances in which public ownership, by using the public credit, escaping taxation and falling back on taxpayers to pay deficits, has driven private ownership to the wall. In this instance it is argued that private ownership can be compelled to charge rates high enough to drive away business, go into bankruptcy and leave a monopoly to its public ownership competitor."

Here is an entirely new theory of rate making which asks, in effect, that publicly owned business, backed by the money of all the taxpayers, be allowed to destroy a private company to escape competition. It demands that where a private business takes patronage from publicly owned businesses, the former should be forced to increase its charges to the point where it loses all its trade. One main argument for the establishment of the publicly owned bridges was to reduce ferry fares for the public—they have succeeded and the public is profiting—what are they kicking about. This is one for Ripley of "Believe It Or Not" fame.

INTERNATIONAL MOONSHINE

The American people condemn old-world governments for their constant wars. The methods and diplomacy of Spain, Russia, Italy, Germany and Japan "give us a pain" and fill us with disgust. Nor, do we think any too well of our friends, Britain and France, on account of the way in which they jockey with the others. Congress made a survey of the situation a few weeks ago and passed a Neutrality act to keep the United States out of war.

A good many years have gone with the wind since the people of our country decided that it was a waste of time to try to make any part of the old world safe for democracy. Nevertheless there are stern reminders of 1916 in the activity of the administration seeking to play peace-maker to nations that would thank us a great deal more if we would keep out of their embattled mud holes.

No, as in the past, our splashing around in efforts to establish peace amongst people who prefer to fight reminds one of that rough and right old saying: "hell is paved with good intentions."

Leaves, Twigs, Clean Teeth
Large numbers of well-to-do natives of India cling to the traditional use of native leaves and twigs for cleaning the teeth.

Cucumbers Sometimes Animal
In certain parts of the world, cucumbers are deep-sea animals with a leathery skin studded with sharp points, instead of being a vegetable.

Uses for the Sombroso

To many Mexicans the sombrero serves as a suitcase wherein they can carry cigarettes, matches, whatever money they have, and often lunch. It is excellent shelter from sun and rain, says the Washington Post. Mexican miners have used the broad-brimmed hats for protection against falling stones in mine shafts. City and farm laborers carry in them most of their belongings, even down to a piece of meat. Wealthier Mexicans do not wear the sombrero as part of their regular wardrobe. However, when they want to "go native" they will pay a big price for a heavy felt model with a magnificent peak 12 to 14 inches high. These hats weigh several pounds and have a brim often 20 inches in diameter.

DO YOU KNOW ILLINOIS?

By EDWARD J. HUGHES
