

Postmaster Lists Dates for Mailing Christmas Parcels

L. B. Paddock Asks Public Cooperation to Handle Added Volume

With the rush of holiday mail just swinging under way at the Barrington post office, it was announced today by L. B. Paddock, postmaster that the post office would be kept open all day the coming Saturday, December 18, to better serve holiday mailers. On the following Saturday, which is Christmas Day, there will be no service of any kind except the delivery of special delivery mail, perishable articles and late parcels that are obviously gift parcels.

Parcels bearing colorful stickers "Do not open until Christmas," have been dribbling through the local post office for several weeks, but these early mailings are really a small minority of the holiday volume expected to reach its peak the early days of next week. Extra clerks and carriers are therefore being added in order to give prompt and efficient service. The public is cautioned, however, that because of the great increase in volume at this time of the year the mailing of gift parcels and greeting cards should be no longer delayed.

Mail for the Pacific coast states should be on its way now, tomorrow being the last day that ordinary parcels and greetings for Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Idaho may be mailed with the assurance that they will be delivered before Christmas.

Articles for the Western and Southwestern states—Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Idaho, should be in the mails by Saturday night at the latest. Mail for near western, Southern and Eastern states should be dispatched by Monday and mail for Illinois in

Junior High Pupils to Give Play for Parents on Friday

Choral Speakers Will Read
Portions of the Legend

"The Legend of the Orb," a play by Eases Dane, will be presented at the public school auditorium Friday evening when pupils of the junior high school entertain their parents at the annual Christmas party. The cast includes 45 children.

Miss M. Annette Rhoad is the director. Choral speakers have been trained to read the prologue to the play and the Christmas story—low voices reading the portion, high one another. The combined chorus will read some portions. Costuming, lighting effects and scenery have been arranged by the pupils. Those in the chorus will wear dark blue skirts, white blouses, red ties and dark blue half socks but those in the English, Dutch, French and Labrador groups will wear simple costumes characteristic of native lands. All were made by the pupils.

Later the class will serve refreshments prepared by the girls. Baking of the Christmas cookies was done in the domestic science room at school.

Street Department Battles Water Leak

The village street department under the direction of Superintendent Paul Percival worked from Saturday afternoon until late Sunday afternoon to repair a burst of water main just east of the Chicago and North Western railroad crossing on Main street.

Nature of the break had not been determined. The leak was discovered when water began seeping from cracks in the pavement near the spot. Due to the large amount of water coming from the large main, which was part of the original system installed in 1898, it was necessary to use a pump to great deal of the time. J. Hughes of Barrington was booked for reckless driving when the car he was driving crashed into the barricade around the spot early Saturday evening. A ladder was broken and the barricade smashed.

Football Is Now Big Business Enterprise, Grange Tells Lions

Football is now more than a game—it is big business, Red Grange told Lions club members and their guests assembled at the annual Lions ladies and guests night at St. Anne's auditorium Monday night.

The Chicago Bears of which Grange is assistant coach played before 35,000, 40,000, 50,000, 60,000, 70,000 spectators week after week during the season, he said. The same is true of the Detroit Lions, and the New York teams play before big crowds, he said.

The cost of running a team is very high, but allows a good profit to the owners during favorable weather conditions. Poor weather seasons result in losses to the owners.

The famous red head of 1923-25, entertained the 135 listeners with amusing anecdotes of the game.

A program of music was furnished by Joseph Chapek, violinist, and Sybil Fagan Chapek, whistler. Ed Leach, singing cowboy, who is entertaining at the Bank Tavern every night, was also on the program.

Award Contract to Lower Lageschulte St. to Catlow Co.

J. H. Catlow Co. was awarded the contract for lowering the surface of Lageschulte street at the intersection of Main street with the highway which held Monday night. R. F. Kocher Sr. moved the contract be awarded the Catlow company as low bidder and his motion was seconded by Trustee John Carroll.

According to specifications, the gravel surface will be cut down one foot for a distance of 70 feet from the intersection. The strip is 30 feet in width.

The lowering was made necessary to conform with grade levels furnished the Deep Rock Oil Co. when it poured the concrete approaches to its new service station at that point. The existing roadway is higher than the concrete slabs, making entrance difficult at that side.

Expect $341 Saving By Changing Jewel Park Light System

By adopting a resolution calling for a change of the ornamental street lighting system in Jewel Park from a flat rate basis to meters, the village board Monday night in special session instituted an economy move estimated to be a net annual saving of $341.

The motion for approval was made by Trustee John Haenschel and seconded by Trustee John Carroll.

The lighting system will be placed on a meter system by the Public Service Co. for an initial charge of $55. The average amount expended by the village for lights in Jewel Park has been $540 heretofore, and it has been estimated that the new method will approximate $199 annually.

The change-over is expected to be made shortly.

Christmas Program of Woman's Club Proves a Surprise

Leslie Hinkle of Kankakee Lectures for Wife

Songs at the Christmas tree in the lobby of the Catlow theatre, pictures of snow storms and a talk by Leslie Hinkle of Kankakee comprised the Christmas program of the Barrington Woman's club at its December meeting held at the theatre.

It was rather a surprise program, according to Mrs. John Schwemm, chairman, who cleverly announced that all previous notices must be ignored—the planned singers were unable to come because of illness and Mr. Hinkle would have to pinch-hit for his wife who was detained in Kankakee by unforeseen circumstances.

Mr. Hinkle, an ex-reporter, business man and traveler, gave brief descriptions of his experiences in Siberia, Armenia, Turkey, Germany, France and Brazil.

To the children in the audience, he explained the legend of St. Nicholas in Germany, adding that the saint was credited only to little folks as the essential spirit of Christmas.

A five-minute discussion of current events, in answer to questions from the audience, concluded Mr. Hinkle's talk.

Through the courtesy of Wright Catlow, manager of the theatre, pictures of winter sports and a collection of Christmas film cartoons were shown. Mrs. Eliza Schutt, club president, welcomed the guests and presided.

Gifts for the Creche, formerly the Little Wanderer's Nursery, were placed under the tree in the lobby of the theatre by members and will be taken to the children in time for their Christmas program.

Delay Division of Voting Precincts

Aware that a future action of some resident of Lake county might jeopardize the validity of elections and also halt payment of judges, clerks and other election expenses, the Lake county board of supervisors has delayed appointing voting precincts until the January meeting.

Recognizing the possibility of such a tie-up, the board has decided to wait until January and in the meantime ask for a detailed opinion from Attorney General Otto Kerner through State's Attorney Charles E. Mason.

If the attorney general's opinion still leaves the question of validity open, a friendly mandamus suit will be instituted against the board of supervisors to force the appointment, it was learned.

A statute law provides that the board should divide the precincts by giving $50 or more votes during the June or July meetings. The elections committee of the board, composed of Supervisors James O'Connor, Frank Davis, Frank Burke and Thomas Kirchner, prepared a recommendation for dividing the 25 Waukegan township precincts to 30 precincts, the 12 in Deerfield to 16, Cuba and Elm township to 15, and 2 in Bluff to 2, and other large polling places likewise.

Enter Decree in Favor of Village in School Suit

Judgment Against Estate of Former Treasurer and Cuba Schools

The lengthy litigation between the village of Barrington and trustees, directors, members of boards of education and the F. L. Waterman estate reached a partial conclusion Tuesday when a decree was entered in superior court of Cook county awarding claims to the village for $113,999. The decree included a settlement between directors and trustees of the school districts in Cuba township for $4976 and a summary judgment against the F. L. Waterman estate for $1124.

The agreement between village officials and those of the Lake county schools was reached a short time ago but was not made known pending the outcome of the suit filed against the estate of the late F. L. Waterman, who was village treasurer at the time the First State Bank of Barrington closed.

There was no answer to the petition of the village by attorneys for the late Mr. Waterman and a summary judgment was granted by Judge A. Stanton.

The only remaining business is the conclusion of the suit against the board of education for district No. 4. There is of approximately $3000 claimed due the village, according to Attorney D. H. Maloney, village attorney. This amount, if all received, also would cover the expenses borne by the village in pressing the settlement. It was reported.

The litigation was based on claims made by the village of Barrington that the bank had failed in both the First State Bank of Barrington and the First National Bank of Barrington at the time of the former's closing. Funds from the village were deposited in the bank and were kept in joint accounts in both banks by Mr. Waterman, and an audit was prepared by the village board showing the receipts and disbursement of both taxing bodies and used in the suit for division of funds.

At the closing of the First State, Mr. Waterman held that all money in the bank belonged to the village and the funds in the First National belonged to the school districts. Village officials contended the division was arbitrarily made and, after many attempts for settlements outside of court, filed suit.

Dividends from the receiver of the First State Bank were credited to the school districts proportionately in asking for the division, Mr. Maloney stated.

Delinquent Sewer and Water Bills Hearings Delayed

The suits for collection of delinquent sewer rental and water bills, which were originally scheduled for hearing last Saturday, will be heard by Police Magistrate A. D. Church Saturday afternoon.

It was planned to hear the cases against 11 property owners on the previous date but all the necessary papers were not obtained in time. If payment is made at the village clerk's office before the hearing, part of the costs could be saved but the amount of $15 for carrying the subpoenas must be paid. It was learned.

All those owing over $20 for delinquent sewer and water bills were served notices of suit. At the hearings the village will ask for judgments against the property involved.

To Request to Have Complaint in Sewer Damage Suit Struck

D. B. Maloney, village attorney, stated Tuesday that he will appear in the circuit court of Lake county within the next week or ten days and file motion to have the complaint struck in the Oleske-Thoren damage suit against the village of Barrington. An amended complaint asking $55,000 damages was filed a week ago Monday by W. U. Bartwell, member of Eckert's and Peterson, attorneys for complainants. The original complaint filed early this summer was struck up on the petition of Mr. Maloney.

THE BEST PLAYROOM

By JOSEPHINE PHILLIPS

"How I wish I could afford to furnish a playroom for Elsie like little Anne Blackmer's." Mrs. Adams' voice was as near complaining as Mrs. Mann had ever heard it. "Have you seen the cunning chairs and table and the tiny cupboards and low bookshelves?—everything perfect and to scale. Don't you envy people who have money?"

"Oh my, yes!" laughed her neighbor. "But not because they can furnish like playrooms for their children."

"Soor grapes!" chided Mrs. Adams.

"No, seriously. While these complete outfits of little chairs and things are delightful, they are often overdone, and I think they're of doubtful value."

"But why?"

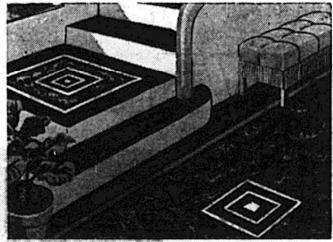

"They don't leave a child enough to aspire to. They don't help him to grow. If his books and toys and everything he wants can be found on a low shelf, he may never learn to hunt around for something to stand on, and his reaching and climbing muscles won't get any exercise. To a certain extent I suppose it is nice for a youngster to have and use his own property, his own side, even up to having a whole roomful of it, but personally I feel there is considerable of social training and educational opportunity in our big best living-room chair that Bobby has learned to scramble out of and offer to Grandpa the moment he comes home from work."

"After all, one doesn't want to isolate a child or children off to one side as though they were chickens. It's quite well and proper to have secluded chicken-accommodations, furnished complete with chicken furniture—drinking-fountains and mash-bowls that are just the right size and shape. But chickens aren't like children. They haven't the imaginations and aspirations that children have, nor do they have, probably, a future of delicate social adjustments ahead of them."

"Chicken-houses for chickens, then, while for children—to my mind—there's nothing quite like a good old-fashioned big kitchen to be brought up in. Lacking that,

Suburban Building Effected Little By Business Recession

Neither the business slump nor the seasonal falling off had any great effect on the amount of the permits for building issued in November in the Chicago suburban region. Sixty-four communities reported a total of $2,985,546 to the Greenbaum Investment Company, which makes a monthly survey of the area. This compares with $2,329,932 for October, 1937, and $3,006,949 for November of last year, a total which was greatly enlarged by the inclusion of a $750,000 addition to the diesel engine plant at McCook. As almost no industrial construction is found in the latest reports to offset this extraordinary item, it is apparent that suburban building in general is well ahead of last year.

This fact is borne out by a comparison of the month by month figures of 1937 with those of 1936.

Jan.	$1,526,770	$ 797,481
Feb.	1,889,062	513,290
March	3,666,255	2,732,621
April	4,424,193	3,109,248

Aug.	4,102,379	2,018,112
Sept.	2,463,824	2,435,441
Oct.	2,339,932	2,301,638
Nov.	2,985,546	3,006,949

Totals $33,734,106 $24,974,774

It may be noted that suburban building thus far this year exceeds last year's total by $8,759,000, or more than 35 per cent. Another interesting comparison is that of suburban building with New building in the city of Chicago where the total for the eleven months is $27,920,268. The Chicago suburban region exceeds this by $6,813,838. In November the suburbs had almost twice as much building as the city, the suburban figure being as already noted, $2,985,546 and the city, $1,566,160.

Leaving all hangers from other months out of consideration, permits were issued in November for 112 homes to cost $1,379,214—a very substantial advance over October when the figures were 135 homes to cost $1,122,716. The outstanding home reports came from Arlington Heights, where permits for nine homes were issued to cost $79,250; Aurora, seven, $30,848; Elgin, ten, $40,550; Evanston, twelve, $279,800; Gary, ten, $49,848; Hammond, nine, $56,800; Highland Park, six, $48,670.

to carry out her plot of vengeance against George III.

The style is graphic—the scenes portraying, underfoot, horribly abused children, court intrigue, and hatred. In many cases the situations are decidedly forced, but the 600 pages are engrossing if one is not overcome by the stark realism of the novel.

general and nearby points in Iowa, Wisconsin, and Indiana not later than Tuesday. Mail for nearby towns should be in the post office by Wednesday and holiday mail for local delivery before Thursday noon.

These are the latest dates that mailing may be made with reasonable assurance of delivery. Earlier mailings, however, will materially assist postal employees.

As in former years, greeting cards enclosed in unsealed envelopes may be mailed at the third class rate of 1 1/2 cents. They may be the name of the addressee and of the sender, and such simple inscriptions as "My dear Friend," "Sincerely yours," "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," etc., but anything in the nature of a personal message will subject the card to the first class rate of postage. Cards mailed at the third class rate, if undeliverable, will not be forwarded or returned. They should be mailed a day or two earlier than those mailed at first class rates to insure delivery on time.

To conform to an order of Postmaster General Farley that all postal employees who can be spared shall have an opportunity to spend Christmas Day with their families, the rule that only gift parcels, special delivery, and perishable articles shall be delivered on Christmas Day is general throughout the country. Late mailings should be in mind the special delivery provision, and for distant points the combination air mail-special delivery should come to the rescue of those who recall a forgotten friend at the last minute. An air mail special delivery letter for Los Angeles, for instance, mailed in Barrington Friday morning, December 24, should be delivered on Christmas Day.

Battle of Kites

Japanese kites are flown by groups of boys in Japan in competitions, or "kite battles." All sorts of decorative kites are made, light but quite strong, with special lines treated with a ground glass and glue mixture which makes them very sharp. In a battle the idea is to see who can maneuver his string against the string of another kite, cutting it so that it will fall to the ground. The boy who causes the most kites to fall wins.

Safety Driving Taught in Schools

Pictured here is the automobile used by students in Evanston high school's course in "sportsmanlike driving." The car is equipped with two sets of controls, so that the instructor as well as the student, can manipulate brakes and clutch. Similar courses are to be started in many high schools in Illinois and Indiana.

In a campaign to promote traffic safety knowledge among children of high school age, seven high schools in Illinois have already started courses in "sportsmanlike driving." The Chicago Motor club announced this week.

Many other schools throughout Illinois and Indiana are also using material on safe driving supplied by the motor club. In civics, science and English classes, and many plan to make "sportsmanlike driving" a part of their regular curricula, with students getting credit toward graduation.

"The age group that includes high school children has shown an increase in the traffic death rate of 192 per cent since 1922," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, said.

"This is particularly alarming because the death rate for children in elementary grades has decreased six per cent during the same period. Of course, elementary school children have been subjected to a concerted campaign of safety education and constant supervision by the school safety patrol since 1922 and these two factors have borne results," he declared.

"Since most people now begin their driving experience during their high school years it is of vital importance to the traffic safety problem of the future, that these children be taught to drive safely, that they form habits and attitudes that will make them safe drivers for the rest of their lives."

Start Mailing Out 1938 State Plates

The mailing of automobile license plates for 1938 began on December 15 it was announced by the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. The usual volume of early business requires much preliminary clerical work before the plates may be issued and as a consequence some delay is necessary. Over the counter service also began on December 15.

Secretary Hughes stated that motorists who have requested high numbers must of necessity receive their plates at a later date than those whose numbers occur

Evergreens Fine for Window Boxes

By the Master Gardener

During the winter months, it is not necessary to store your window boxes and urns; or, in the case of those attached permanently to the architecture, have them bare of vegetation.

A window box planted with a variety of small evergreens will bring just as much cheer to your home in winter as do the conventional window box plantings in summer.

Especially will such a planting add to the holiday appearance of your home. A leading evergreen nursery recommends for this purpose: trees of a height ranging from 10 to 18 inches, and the varieties suggested are Norway Spruce, Pyramidal Arborvitae. An assortment of twelve is very moderately priced—no more than you would pay for two medium quality potted plants for the interior of your home.

To estimate the number of trees required, figure about one tree per foot of window-box length. If the box is quite wide, two rows of trees could be planted.

Plant in fertile soil and keep well watered.

Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938

Week-End Feature

"Partners in Crime" Coming Wednesday for Two-Day Showing

Right on the heels of his sensational hit, "A Star Is Born," David O. Selznick has ushered in another magnificent piece of entertainment.

The picture is "The Prisoner of Zenda," Anthony Hope's swash-buckling tale of love, intrigue and adventure in the courts of Europe, with Ronald Colman, Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in the leading roles, and the re-creation of the Catlow theatre audience where it had its first premiere last night told the world in no uncertain terms that Mr. Selznick has another hit on his hands!

America's most widely publicized personality, that "Big Rock," situated in the chill waters of San Francisco Bay, is brought to the motion picture screen for the first time in "Alcatraz Island," a thrilling melodrama which comes to the Catlow Saturday.

Grim but fascinating is this story of men who live outside the law, and of the men whose duty it is to apprehend and convict them. Every moment is loaded with thrills as this drama moves swiftly to an unexpected and exciting climax.

Something breath-takingly new in screen entertainment comes to the Catlow Sunday and Monday when "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" begins an engagement.

This gay musical stars Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett at the head of an imposing cast including Helen Vinson, Mischa Auer, Alan Mowbray, Jerome Cowan, Marjorie Gateson, Dorothy McNulty, Alma Krueger, Polly Rowles and the Walter Wanger models, the most photographed girls in the world.

One of the strongest comedy casts ever assembled in Hollywood is seen in "There Goes the Groom," coming Tuesday to the Catlow. Heading the group are Ann Ralston, Burgess Meredith and Mary Boland, whose individual work has won high critical praise and who are here brought together for the first time.

Playing the double feature bill Tuesday is "Partners in Crime," with Lyne Overman, Roscoe Karns, Muriel Hutchinson and Lucien Littlefield.

Introducing a brilliant new light comedy team in the persons of Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall, "Breakfast for Two," coming to the Catlow Wednesday and Thursday is an offering replete with witty dialogue, mirth-provoking situations and clever situations.

Barbara Stanwyck is cast as a fiery debutante from Texas who becomes interested in a Broadway playboy whom she meets in a night club and escorts home in a tipy stage.

Home From Florida
Mrs. William Sandell returned Sunday from a motor trip to Florida. Mrs. Sandell accompanied Mrs. Rose Kellogg of Crystal Lake who took relative to Florida where they will spend the winter.

Gains of Tubercular Battle Are Cited By Seal Sale Chairman

"A life every eight minutes is the toll of tuberculosis," Mrs. Frank C. Kirkman, chairman of the Barrington Christmas seal committee, affiliated with the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute, said today. "Thirty years ago tuberculosis took a life every 3 1/2 minutes," the chairman continued, attributing the sharp decrease in the mortality rate in part to the war on the disease financed by the sale of Christmas seals.

Additional national statistics disclosed that five out of every 100 deaths today are caused by tuberculosis, whereas thirty years ago this disease claimed 12 out of every 100 deaths.

This noteworthy decline has been brought about through the intensive public health programs made possible by Christmas seals. Newer medical techniques, including the tuberculin test, chest X-rays and collapse therapy have brought the disease into the open and enabled treatment to begin before irreparable damage had been done.

Christmas seals sold in Barrington make possible the health programs and services of the Barrington Health Center. Mrs. Kirkman urged greater participation in the Barrington seal sale as a factor in protecting adults and children from this disease.

WHEN POLITICS MEETS ECONOMICS

President Roosevelt wants the utilities to spend money to help give employment.

The utilities want to do it.

Where is the money coming from?

The public will have to supply it—the investors who have always supplied the funds for business expansion.

But why do not the utilities borrow the money and get on with their expansion or rather the filling of the big shortage of facilities that have accumulated in the last five years?

Mr. Roosevelt met with two leading utility executives to find out the reason.

The conference was of transcendent importance. It was an object lesson in government—the power vested in one man to decide the fate of a $12,000,000,000 industry. It was a conspicuous meeting of the political and the economic viewpoints in an earnest effort to find some solution to a situation in which state socialism and public ownership on the one hand, having seized control of the public purse through political channels, is now face to face with a private capitalism which is apprehensive, fearful, demoralized to point where the whole future of the system of private initiative hangs in the balance.

To Mr. Roosevelt's credit be it said that he is a realist. He deals with what is directly before him. He has by no means been won over completely to the state socialism idea even if he has encouraged the trend in that very direction. He still thinks he can find a compromise between the two philosophies.

But where the president will find his hardest problem is in convincing the investor that the government with one hand can bait and sabotage private systems of business and with the other hand can, by mere words, lift the morale of the whole economic system to the point where investors will part with their money. He must persuade the investors that they should lend their funds—that they invest money in uncertainties with the same zeal that they have invested their savings under the rules of prudence and certainty established heretofore by the courts and government commissions in dealing with the ownership of private property.

The president told the utility men they had nothing to fear. He spoke of data showing that at best the government could furnish competition in only 18 per cent of the area of the United States. But Mr. Roosevelt didn't stop to consider what this meant in terms of the dollars invested already or likely to be. Thus, for instance, draw a line 250 miles north of the Norris Dam of the TVA and it lands you in Ohio. Suppose the federal government subsidizes the municipality which buys power and creates an artificial market? Would the mayor of a near-by city be content to let the first city get the gravy without making a furor and demanding equal aid from the federal government? Human nature answers in the negative.

Take 18 per cent of the bricks from any building and you can topple it down if you pick strategic points in the foundations. And who will assure the investor that the government will not create competition in the future by more and more subsidies? Can Mr. Roosevelt or any other president give such assurances? Once the principle of state socialism is accepted, the investor starts to hoard his funds and eventually, as in other countries, he starts to move his money across boundaries in the flight of capital that always spells the downfall of democracies and the substitution of the iron hand fascism.

THE PROFITS TAX

Reports of the president's conference quote him as saying that it is more important to raise the purchasing power of "the lower one-third of the American people" than to revise the undistributed profits tax. No one would question the wisdom of this choice if the two alternatives were mutually exclusive.

But the fact of the matter is that revision of the profits tax is now being urged primarily on the ground that it would increase business activity. And increased business activity, accompanied by greater industrial production, means larger purchasing power for all sections of the American public.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

If a man owes $1,000 but earns only enough to pay interest to his creditor on $500, what should be done?
Or, if a railroad owes $200,000,000 but earns only enough to pay interest on half that amount, what can or should be done about it?

The problems are analogous, in the expressed view of President Roosevelt. Discussing the railroad's plight he said, last week, the government did not want to take over their operation. But it was obvious, he added at once, that railroads in receivership could not be operated that way indefinitely. To questions about what would be done, he responded by asking: What would you do?

First responsibility for planning a way out rests with the interstate commerce commission. Even so, Mr. Roosevelt reviewed the situation with Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the reconstruction finance corporation, and later with the press, the commission was hearing arguments on the railroads petition for increased freight and passenger rates.

Revenue have dropped so perceptibly in the current recession that rail spokesmen asked the commission to authorize higher charges immediately, that it be impossible much longer "to continue the present character of transportation service." The request was denied, making it appear likely that no action may be had until late winter or early spring.

Figures presented by the railroads in support of their plea have impressed officials like Chairman Jones, who said either they "must get more income or we must subsidize them." He took up at the white house the matter of more loans to one or two roads especially hard hit. He emphasized later that "subsidizing must stop at some point."

The president indicated he was looking ahead to that indefinite point in the budget where the C. C. C. meanwhile could formulate a plan which might avoid its being reached.

The objective should be retention of private management and ownership along with solvency, he said, and difficulties in the way are:

Overcapitalization—Where a traffic cannot support the full bonded indebtedness of a road what to do? The bonds are held by widows and orphans as well as insurance companies, he noted, implying that the effects of a consequential writedown of a railroad bond values on the national economy needed to be considered.

Competition—Many instances of burdensome competition exist. The country, in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, gradually is coming to support consolidations and elimination of trackage where one road might serve the community adequately, or the bulk of traffic could be handled on highways. Asked about government subsidies to support the existing capital structure, the president said the railroad world school and is open to children of Episcopal families and all those not having affiliation with other churches.

tal structure, the president said the practice would work toward "state socialism." The railroads in that respect appear to him no different from oil companies, cotton mills or other private enterprise.

Despite the unprecedented nominal majority. Democratic leaders in the House have invoked a seldom-needed strategy to promote the chances for enactment of wages and hour legislation at this session. A meeting of more than 100 "loyal" democrats, at which the plan was decided on last week, illustrates how conditions have changed since the 1936 elections returned 331 democrats and 89 republicans.

Confidence, which prevailed among the party managers on the labor standards issue when the 76th congress first met, apparently has given way to uncertainty. They see their ranks divided in a way to threaten fulfillment of this platform plank. Two principal steps have been taken to counter the threat.

First, the labor committee voted 9 to 6, to offer on the floor a week amendments which would alter the senate bill in vital respects. If these are adopted, one effect may be to have the bill re-drafted in a conference between committees of the two branches.

Second, leaving nothing to chance, supporters of the regulation principle organized informally to make sure they would be adequately represented on the floor throughout the debates. They evidently were fearful that recalcitrant democratic others might band with republicans in a way to emasculate or delay the bill.

As passed by the senate, administration of the proposed law would be left to a five-member board. Southern representatives objected to the board discretion vested in the board, contending its decisions could be unfairly prejudicial to labor. They were able to tie up the measure, as altered somewhat by the labor committee, until 218 members signed a petition to force it from the rules committee to the floor.

Conflicting versions of arguments used to obtain the required number of signatures on the petition are given by representatives especially interested. Some say it was understood that the provision for an administrative board insurance be retained; others, that the bill's sponsors agreed beforehand to center the authority in the department of labor, as desired by Secretary Perkins.

Another complication arose when the American Federation of Labor suggested that a flat minimum wage of 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 30 hours be required by law. Since the Committee for Industrial Organization favors the present bill, the A. F. of L. action divided the house ranks normally receptive to the wishes of organized labor.

Need Skill to Labor
"There can never be times so prosperous," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chingtown, "that idleness can be enjoyed by every one, since even devout prayer cannot assure us of what we need, unless we pray for strength and skill to labor."

Though their objective received a definite set-back at a recent referendum, proponents of the city movie proposition and anti-Voliva forces at Zion City will meet on Friday night to Michael J. Mintern, general overseer pro tem, and Frank Scaccia, director of the organization that has been showing movies in the Zion gymnasium, that further violations of the city anti-movie code would bring arrests. It has been the practice of the Voliva forces to show movies under the sponsorship of their own organization and charge admission to the showings.

Anti-Voliva Forces Win Second Round of Public Movie Debate

The notice was in the form of a letter from Mayor Richard F. Hirt to Wilbur Glenn Voliva and Mr. Scaccia, and its contents pointed out that the showing of movies with admission charge was a violation of the anti-movie code passed by the last city administration of Voliva adherents. At the last municipal election, Voliva's power in the city was broken when the mayor's seat and the greater percentage of aldermanic seats were won by opposition forces. The action taken by Mayor Hirt followed a referendum for public movies and bowling alleys, which was defeated 948 to 494. It was learned that movies would continue to be shown but no admission would be charged.

Bronchos Lose Two Cage Games to Palatine and Wauconda Teams

Meet Niles Center, Leyden and Alumni Teams This Week

Inexperience and Lack of Drive in Second Half Looms in Defeats

Due to lack of experience the Barrington High school cage teams dropped lightweight and heavyweight contests to the Palatine Pirates and the Wauconda Bulldogs last Friday and Saturday, respectively. In Friday's game with Palatine the Bronchos were baffled by the Pirates light and defense and failed to make their own defense hold. Although the Bronchos had a good first half, the Pirates won by a score of 36 to 16.

After a close first half the Pirates started on a scoring spree and, with Captain Johnny O'Brien paving the way, scored 25 points in the second half. The Bronchos, who were caught off their guard, scored only a field goal and a charity shot all during the second half of the game.

O'Brien, who played between the two Broncho guards, made a defense, intercepted a number of passes and broke into the clear. He scored three of his four field goals in this way. O'Brien took the scoring honors for the Pirates with 11 points, while Captain Ernie Rice scored seven of the locals 16 points.

Wauconda Wins

The Wauconda Bulldogs invaded the local gym Saturday and defeated the Bronchos in the last quarter after being on the short end of a 22 to 18 score at the close of the third period. The locals were strong in the first half, but as in previous games, slowed up enough in the second half to let their opponents pass them up and win. With Koppin and Bonner starting, the Bulldogs scored five field goals and a free throw in the last quarter while the Bronchos only contributed charity shot to their score.

This defeat marked the Bronchos' fourth loss in four starts, being downed by Crystal Lake, Arlington Heights, Palatine, and then Wauconda. It is hoped that next Friday, when the Bronchos travel to Niles Center, they will be able to give a better showing than they have in their four previous games. Niles Center has a strong squad this season as was shown by their 31 to 15 win over Arlington. The Bronchos are rated as underdogs in the coming contest but they may surprise everyone and come out on top. On Tuesday and Wednesday of the following week the Bronchos will meet Leyden and the Alumni. The Leyden game will be played on the Franklin Park floor.

Ponies Drop Two
The Ponies also shared the sorrows of defeat with the Bronchos by losing to Palatine and Wauconda by scores of 19 to 14 and 16 to 14, respectively. Outlets of a bad third quarter the Ponies played evenly with the Palatine lights, but Palatine scored three field goals in this period and maintained the lead which these goals gave them.

In the Wauconda game the locals failed to get ahead and Wauconda held a one or two point lead all through the game. This defeat also was the fourth of the season for the Ponies.
