Joliet Man Shoots Self in Car South of Village Monday

Eugene Freiner, 28, Ends Life Because of Financial Worries

Freiner, 28 years old, of Joliet, who shot and killed himself while seated in his automobile on Barrington road near the intersection of U. S. route 19 Monday evening.

E. E. Edelstein, Cook county deputy coroner, conducted the hearing at the funeral home, 149 W. Main street.

His car was first noticed by Edward Stump, a farmer residing in the vicinity, earlier in the evening and he notified the state highway police department. Upon investigation, officers found Freiner's body slumped down on the front seat beneath the steering wheel. A .38 calibre automatic pistol was lying beneath the body. He had shot himself above the right ear, the bullet leaving the opposite side of the head and lodging in the side of the car.

Testimony at the inquest revealed he had been employed with a reputable stock and bond house in Joliet but had lost his position two months ago. Notes in his brief cases indicated financial matters were pressing him.

Information concerning the fatality was told at the hearing by Mrs. Freiner, his bride of five months; State Highway Patrolmen Glenn Olson and Herbert Wright, and the dead man's mother, Mrs. Arthur Freiner. Prior to their marriage, his widow was Virginia Wolff, niece of E. Wolf of Barrington.

W. Koss Meets a Progeny of the Cow That Jumped Over the Moon

It matters aren't ironed out soon it will be impossible to serve two kinds of meat at the dinner table without blindingfold the beef or pork. No, the economic situation doesn't enter into it at all.

William Koss, 557 N. Hough street, a cattle dealer, is the authority for the second episode on animal life in the past several weeks. He spent a weary day last Wednesday wheeling, coaxing, threatening and finally using strategy in a hectic effort to transport a cow and a 400-lb pig to the Union stockyards in Chicago.

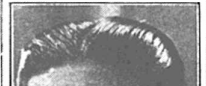

Mr. Koss loaded his small delivery truck with the cow first and when he attempted to put the pig in with her, Bossy asserted her feminine nature and refused to countenance such a move. In fact, she made violent efforts to leave the truck each time Mr. Koss tried to put it in the piggy.

Faced with a baffling situation he stood in thought for a few minutes and then recalled a remark made by his grandfather some years past. This venerable gentleman was heard to comment one day: "If you can pull the wool over a woman's eyes, you got something." Benefiting from that idea and putting it into practical application, Mr. Koss took a blanket and wrapped it around the cow's head.

Unable to see, she made no further attempts.

Rep. Richard Lyons Announces Campaign

State Representative Richard J. Lyons, Libertyville republican, announced Wednesday he will be a candidate again for the position of representative in the general assembly for the eighth senatorial district, comprising the counties of McHenry, Lake and Boone. His announcement set at rest all speculations as to his possible state candidacy for some other position. He has been mentioned as a possible candidate for United States senator from Illinois.

In connection with his announcement he will seek re-election as state representative. Mr. Lyons issued the following statement:

"I appreciate more than I can tell you the compliment the press and friends from almost every county in Illinois have paid me in suggesting my name for state wide office this year.

"It happens, however, that I chose not to attempt a state race, requiring as it would, vastly heavier obligations than I am capable of discharging.

"Instead, I will ask the voters of Lake, McHenry and Boone counties for re-election as representative in the general assembly, where, if returned, I can better promote my loyal faithfulness to the citizens of this great section of Illinois.

"My services, I believe, will be of some value at Springfield in view of the economic and political condition of our state. My first terms in the house have placed me in a more or less commanding position where I can better promote the interests of my district."

"Love and Hisses" Is Week-End Movie at Catlow Theatre

"Ebb Tide," New Technicolor Hit, Opens Wednesday for Two Days

When Jane Withers and the Hartmans, eccentric ventriloquists and famed Broadway satirists of the dance, start throwing their voices and dancing around, uproariously funny things happen in the starlet's latest and most laughable, lovable picture "Ebb Tide," which comes to the Catlow theatre Saturday, in which Thomas Beck and Louise Henry are also featured.

There are to be two screen sing-along debuts in "Love and Hisses," starring Walter Winchell, Ben Bernie and Simone Simon, opening Sunday at the Catlow, but one of them will be a final performance as well.

The first is the sensational introduction of the lovely French star, Simone Simon, as a singing star of noteworthy talent, in several hit songs by Gordon and Revel.

The second debut occurs in the finale of the film, a thrilling production number in which all of the principals sing brief solos from the Gordon and Revel hit, "Be a Good Sport." Here, for the first time on the screen, Walter Winchell will warble.

Photographic doubles of nearly 30 famous stars appear in "It Happened in Hollywood," showing Tuesday at the Catlow. Among those "present" are Eddie Cantor, Claudette Colbert, Marlene Dietrich, Great Garbo, W. C. Fields, Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, Irene Dunne, Charlie Chaplin, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Mae West and Bing Crosby.

On the double feature bill with "It Happened in Hollywood," Tuesday, is the "88, The Octopus," starring Hugh Herbert, with Allen Jenkins and Marcia Ralston.

Directorial genius turned a "boner" into an advantage in a scene from "Ebb Tide," the new Technicolor film, which opens Wednesday for a two-day engagement. The picture, which is taken from a story by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne, is set in a tropical scene in the South Seas.

For an important scene Oscar Homolka, Ray Milland and Barry Fitzgerald were talking under a palm tree. The scene was going perfectly, the actors were doing their parts just as Director James Hogan wanted them done, when one of the big arc lights began to overheat and crack. The noise sounded as if some raucous tropical bird had perched in the tree over the actor's heads and begun a sour serenade.

The actors expected Hogan to stop the scene and wait for the light to cool, but Hogan had no idea of spoiling a perfect "take." When the scene was finished he called for a parrot, placed the bird in the tree, and shot a brief silent section of film. When the parrot was inserted in the scene, he not only accounted for the noise, but also increased the effectiveness of the shot. It was the first time in history that a parrot had doubled for an arc light!

When Nature goes on a Rampage

The telephone company is always prepared for emergencies. No one knows when Nature will crash down on our plant. It did this in January a year ago when a sleet storm, the worst in years, covered west central Illinois. In spite of the magnitude of the damage, the work of restoring telephone service proceeded swiftly and smoothly because the Illinois Bell Telephone Company has not only its own personnel and resources to call upon, but the personnel and resources of the entire Bell System. This working together of all units of a universal telephone system makes possible the dependable telephone service you know today.

INTO THE KETTLE

Among the suggestions from Review readers which we shall put "into the kettle" this week are four suitable for one of those delightful buffet suppers or informal luncheons particularly pleasant at this time of year when guests enjoy filling their plates and sitting around a fireplace as they munch.

The main dish is a meat soufflé suggested by Mrs. Reuben Plazge whose recipe is as follows:

MEAT SOUFFLE

2 cups chopped meat (raw or cooked);
1 cup broth (simply made by dissolving 1 beef cube in 1 cup boiling water);

1 cup milk;
2 tablespoons butter;
2 tablespoons flour;
2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs;
3 eggs;

1/4 tablespoon onion juice.

Chopped parsley.

Green beans in Mexican style make an attractive and delicious accompaniment to the soufflé. Mrs. Donald Titterton contributed the following recipe:

GREEN BEANS (Mexican Style)

1/2 cup chopped onions;

6 tablespoons salad oil;

2 No. 2 cans green string beans (drained);

1 Box, can tomato sauce;

2 tablespoons sugar;

1 teaspoon salt;

3 teaspoons lemon juice.

Pepper.

Cook onion in oil until tender.

Add remaining ingredients, tossing with fork. Serve hot.

A variation in your favorite muffin recipe may be gained by adding candied orange peel, cut in small sections. Mrs. Charles Fowberg reported, adding that recent guests at her home were enthusiastic over high school split a double-header with Palatine Friday evening, the heavyweights winning by a score of 22 to 20 and the lights losing 17 to 22.

the orange muffins she had served. As a finale to the meal suggested today, we offer Mrs. Plazge's recipe for frozen salad—equally delightful as salad or dessert:

FROZEN SALAD

1 pkg. soft, white, cream cheese;

1 cup crushed pineapple;

1/4 cup mayonnaise;

1/4 lb. marshmallows, cut fine.

Mix. Let stand overnight. Beat well in morning and add 1/4 pt. cream, whipped stiff. Freeze in refrigerator tray 3 hours. Cut in squares to serve. Garnish with maraschino cherries, green grapes or nut meats.

All suggestions for this column will be greatly appreciated. We want you Review readers to feel it is YOURS for an exchange of ideas to further the joy of home making and entertaining. Address communications to B.B. Thank you.

Early Lawn Feeding

Insures Good Growth

By THE MASTER GARDENER

To have a beautiful lawn, you must feed that lawn—furnish it with all the elements growing grass needs. Many people fail to realize the amount of plant food removed from the soil each year by growing grass. They do not realize the necessity of replacing that plant food. They wonder why their lawn becomes thin, straggly and weedy—and why reseeding alone does not solve the problem.

The most desirable method of feeding is to apply a complete, balanced plant food—odorless, economical, and easy to apply.

Plant food, to be of greatest benefit to grass, should be applied to the established lawn very early in the spring. The most favorable time to apply it is just as soon as spring thawing begins because—

1. The ground is still honeycombed from the effects of freezing and thawing and the plant food readily finds its way to the grass roots.

2. The nourishment is available to the roots, just as soon as root action begins, and when all conditions are favorable for growth.

3. If water bills are a factor in your garden budget, by all means take advantage of early feeding, for plant food need not be watered in if applied before top growth begins. The early spring rains will take care of this watering-in process for you.

Early feeding will develop sturdy deep roots that are resistant to summer heat and drought, and that will support a green velvet carpet of grass the whole season through.

Plenty of moisture from spring rains, cool weather—just the conditions that grass likes. Remember that root activity starts long before any sign of growth is visible above ground.

SAFER HIGHWAYS

Legislation designed to throw the influence of the federal government behind the effort of states and communities to improve traffic conditions and assure safer highway use will receive attention at the session of congress beginning this month.

This statement was made recently by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, on the basis of reports from American Automobile Association National headquarters.

"Of numerous safety measures now pending in congress," Mr. Hayes said, "one of the most significant is that which proposes to set up a federal highway safety authority. It would be composed of representatives of federal agencies now concerned with various organizations interested in safety. The purpose of the Authority would be to coordinate existing federal activities."

Pointing out that road design may figure in new road legislation already on the congressional calendar, Mr. Hayes said that the congress has already evidenced an interest in grade-crossing elimination and safety standards in road-building. He continued:

"The numerous legislative proposals relating to various elements of the safety problem offered at recent sessions of congress indicate the growing interest of members in the traffic situation. As a result, it is only a question of time until the more constructive proposals are drafted into laws."

JOBS FOR THE JOBLESS

There are many lessons which may be drawn from the just-completed census of unemployment. If the lessons are heeded and future plans made accordingly, then the country will profit; if they aren't, then the nation will just have to continue muddling along and let nature take its course.

For instance, the census was made November 16-20. An awful lot of water has gone over the dam since then. Thousands were carried on payrolls at a loss right through Christmas just because employers didn't want to ruin their holiday season. Even the 7,882,914 enumerated by the census were said to represent only 72 per cent of those jobless. So we add a "guesstimate" to the cold figure and come up with 10,870,000 unemployed. It should be perfectly clear that congress is pretty much legislating in the dark despite the census. It ought to have some machinery to give it accurate and up-to-date figures regularly, especially when things are not on an even keel.

One of the biggest lessons, however, was in the figures showing that out of the 7,882,914 who were jobless, only 2,001,877 were doing WPA, NYA, CCC or other federal emergency relief work despite the outpouring of literally billions of dollars by state and national governments. That proves that the answer isn't the appropriation of additional billions but the expansion of job opportunities in private employment.

In short, you can't put even the present jobless on federal or state payrolls. The answer is to stimulate and build up the confidence of private enterprise so that it may supply the necessary jobs.

WHY HUNT ALIBIS?

A stranger in our country, reading current political attacks on American industry, could not be blamed for coming to the conclusion that the executive management of our industries has been not only a dismal failure, but a menace to the nation.

Management of private enterprise in the United States, from hot dog stands to railroads and utilities, has been largely taken over by politicians, who without a blush profess to know more about such industries than do the men who have put their money and their lives into the building up of productive properties.

A great argument has been going on nationally about why the investment market is drying up. Is the question so complex as many claim? Do your own analyzing.

For example, you elected John Jones to congress. The chances are ten to one that you know John Jones isn't a particularly good business man in his home community, even though he was a good enough politician to get your vote. Would you employ Congressman Jones to invest your personal savings? Would you hire him, because of his outstanding business record, to manage your business? Chances are ten to one you would not. And yet, thousands of John Jones in high political offices, are today, in effect, usurping practically every phase of operation and management of American industry, even though they have had no experience with the industries they presume to manage, and do not assume any financial or tax responsibility.

Is it possible that such "political management" of industry has anything to do with the reticence of Mr. Joe Citizen to invest his money?

MORE THAN POLITICAL HANDSHAKES NEEDED

"...The dominant issue is not the making of peace between the white house and the utilities. It is the making of peace or establishing a reliable understanding of the power issue between the administration and the investing public. The year 1938 may see important steps taken in this direction but so far the preliminaries have been more cordial than definite."—Francis X. Welch, in Public Utilities Fortnightly.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Utility executives were broader smiles in November than at any time since 1933. Developments seemed to be favoring their viewpoint. The president called some of them in to talk things over. But the harmony predicted then has far from materialized.

Again private utilities have lost a major court case. Again the administration has rejected a proposal for settlement of the controversy in the Tennessee Valley area. Another policy seen as a potential threat to private power interests has been projected.

Does the administration contemplate, as they have contended, a national program of public ownership? Will utility investments be expending for irretrievably? Is expansion of private plants and the consequent employment out of the question because the president is unyielding on fundamental issues? Mr. Roosevelt has insisted no justification exists for considering his power policy a threat to the overwhelming mass of private operating utilities. He has made public statistics to show that only a small proportion of the population can be served by federal projects existing or planned. As to regulation of holding companies, he has said he was only to "cut the muscle" of "a four-inch tail that wags a 96-inch dog."

Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern, apparently saw what was coming. Much had happened since he visited the white house for what was called a "peace conference."

He had suggested bases for compromise to the president. Not until ten days ago did Mr. Roosevelt discuss it publicly. Then it was to declare he would not compromise on modification of "death sentence" for holding companies not geographically integrated.

Two important developments had occurred in between. The supreme court upheld PWA aid to municipalities for power projects. Without waiting for the ruling in Chattanooga, Mr. Wilkie finally asked that the government buy Commonwealth and Southern systems in the TVA area at a price fixed by three arbitrators, one named by Mr. Roosevelt, one by the supreme court and one by the utilities.

"I make this suggestion as a last resort in a desperate situation," he said.

"No such crisis exists," replied David E. Lillenthal, TVA director, after visiting the president.

The systems in question, he added, did more business last year than in 1932 when TVA was set up. The government would not buy them. He proposed negotiations for purchase of parts of the systems by municipalities.

Mr. Wilkie rejoined that a "utility system can no more be dismembered and retain its efficiency than can a human body."

Thus the situation stood when, on January 21, the three-judge federal court in Chattanooga unanimously held that the complaining utilities had proved no coercion or conspiracy by TVA, and that competition with the new power because the statute was constitutional.

The decision followed closely upon an administration move for legislation whereby the federal government would pay the full cost of flood-control projects where revenue might be derived from power or irrigation, provided the states ceded title to the land. This could be a prelude to extension of public power activity.

The latest TVA case is headed for the supreme court. So are questions involving the Holding Company act.

It was the president's friend "Bill," a small-town automobile dealer, who started it all. Bill told the president how, in his way of thinking, high-pressure installment selling of automobiles had upset the automobile market.

Ever since that conversation President Roosevelt has been deeply interested in the use of installment credit. He became convinced that the business upturn in early 1937 was accelerated and the downturn later was intensified by the sale of cars to people who really could not afford to own them.

The president called in the highest officials of the nation's largest automobile companies to talk over that situation.

In his discussions, on Jan. 21, Mr. Roosevelt discovered that the automobile executives and executives of the large automobile finance companies agreed with his friend Bill. As explained by Louis Macaulay, speaking for the group of executives:

"We found ourselves in hearty agreement with the president's principles on the subject of installment selling. Properly used, installment buying has been and will continue to be a powerful factor in the economic life of the nation."

stallment buying has been and will continue to help millions of families to a higher standard of living with a corresponding increase in employment. But high-pressure customers or permitting their desires to take them into debt beyond their means is bad business all around."

Broncho Cagers Handed Second Defeat by Heights Friday 24 to 21

Lake Forest Team Will Meet Locals Saturday Evening

Kenny Clinge, Varsity Forward, Lost to Squad With Fractured Rib

The Barrington Broncos basketball team dropped down to next to last place in the Northwest conference standings when they lost a conference contest to the Arlington Cardinals at Arlington Heights Friday evening. The Cardinals main threat was Captain H. Mueller, whose accurateness in shooting accounted for nine Cardinal points and whose passing allowed the Heights squad to hold a fairly safe margin until the last quarter when the locals attempted a final rally but failed to drop the needed points before the gun ended the game. The final score read 24 to 21.

Fail To Hit

Unable to make their long shots hit, the Broncos failed to run up a worthwhile score in the first three quarters. The score at the half-way mark was 13 to 9 with the Broncos on the short end. During the third period Arlington dropped three field goals and four charity shots while they held the locals to only three gift shots. Collins replaced Rice, who went out on fouls during this period. Thackeray and Shepard contributed to make the Broncos' three-quarter mark score 12 to their opponents' 23. Watson tossed two field goals and two three free throws while Herren and Grabenkort scored a field goal and a free throw, respectively, to constitute the Barrington final threat of the evening. The Cardinals only accounted for one point in the last period.

Barrington dropped 11 out of 20 free shots while Arlington made 10 out of 23. Watson and H. Mueller shared the scoring honors with nine points apiece.

The Broncos were without the services of Kenny Clinge, ace forward, who has proved to be the live-wire of the Broncho squad. Clinge suffered a fractured rib during practice last week. It is undetermined how long he will be lost to the team.

Coach T. C. Hooford's Ponies chalked up their third conference win of the season by defeating the Arlington lights by a score of 23 to 24. Grueling and Sherman were high point men with nine points each.

Meet Forest Scouts

Coach E. Lindemeyer of the Lake Forest high school will lead the local gym Saturday with the strong Scout squad that knocked Niles Center out of first place and which has won its last three conference games. Rose, high-scoring Lake Forest forward, will probably be the Bronchos main worry in the coming contest. This is one of the four remaining games on the Barrington schedule, the other three, Niles Center, Ela, and Crystal Lake, each having a victory chalked up against the Bronchos.

Ela Cagers Defeat Palatine in Extra Period Mix Friday

Heavyweight Team Continues to Lead League After Thrilling Contest

The undefeated Lake Zurich cagers pulled themselves out of a tight spot at Palatine Friday night when they defeated the Palatine Pirates in an overtime game, 23 to 20. Ela trailed by a score of 13 to 10 at the half, but slowly closed up the small gap until at the final gun the score was tied up.

To start off the overtime, Schroeder grabbed the tip-off and passed to Leutheuser who dropped the winning basket.

H. Gleason, L. Gleason, Knigge, Golden and Haemker were all forced to leave the game with four personal fouls apiece.

The Palatine lights took the opener from the Ela Juniors by a 22 to 17 score.

Salem, Methodist Teams to Meet in Important Contest

A Win Monday Night Assures Winner Hold on Church League Title

Salem and Methodists will mix in a "crucial" church league basketball tilt, Monday night—"crucial," in that the outcome will largely determine who is to wear this season's championship crown.

The Salem quintet is leading the league with five victories and a single defeat, while Methodist is just a step behind winning four out of five games. A triumph for Salem, Monday, would practically assure it the title as only St. Anne would stand in the leader's way in one of the final scheduled games, two weeks from Monday.

However, should Methodist gain the decision it would be favored to finish on top but would still have to beat St. Anne and St. Paul in its final games. Last time out Methodist topped Salem 30 to 26 in an overtime and both teams will undoubtedly be keyed up for the return match.

In the curtain-raiser Monday, the two lower division teams—Baptist and St. Anne, will meet in what should also be a close battle. In the first tilt between the two, Baptist squeaked out an 18 to 17 win.

Last week's games resulted in easy victories for St. Paul and Salem. St. Paul beat St. Anne by a 24 to 19 score, and Salem defeated Baptist 40 to 28.

Games schedule for Monday, Jan. 31, is as follows:

7:45 p. m.—Baptist vs. St. Anne.
8:45 p. m.—Salem vs. Methodist.
