Proclamation Whereas the post office department and postmasters of the United States are sponsoring National Air Mail Week May 15 to 21,

Being impressed with the fact that the Post Office department in providing air mail facilities and in encouraging their use, is developing a service that is highly important to industry and private citizens alike, and at the same time is making a large contribution to the promotion of air transportation in general.

Now, therefore, I, Earl Hatje, as president of the Village of Barrington, do call upon all citizens of the municipality and the countryside to cooperate to the fullest extent by giving air mail a real test on this week, and especially to observe Air Mail Pick-Up Day on May 15 by mailing at least one air mail letter on this day.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Village of Barrington, this twelfth day of May, 1938.

EARL HATJE,
Village President.

First Local Air Mail Flight Plan Set for May 19th

Local Mail to Be Flown From Sky Harbor to Chicago
Airport

Barrington will have its first air mail pick-up flight on May 19 when Capt. A. H. Kuntz, manager of Sky Harbor airport 12 miles east of Barrington, flying a Ryan monoplane N. C. 17345, will transport the Barrington mails from Sky Harbor to the municipal air field in Chicago to connect with outbound transcontinental planes. The flight was arranged by Wilson T. Herren of Barrington, who put Sky Harbor on the map some years ago when he engineered the Chicago "I Will" endurance flight which set a world's record for non-stop flying that lasted almost a decade.

The pick-up flight will cut the 1 hour and 40 minutes ordinarily required to transport Barrington air mails to the Chicago air field by train and bus to 30 minutes. Availability of a strictly local air field would have reduced the time a quarter of an hour more.

The Barrington flight will be one of hundreds held on May 19 to demonstrate the feasibility of these short flights as feeders to the transcontinental lines.

The Barrington cabot sponsored by the Lions club, pictured here, will be applied to all outgoing air mail during National Air Mail Week, May 15-21. Postmaster Leslie B. Padlock announced that the Barrington flight will carry an additional endorsement to indicate that they have been so endorsed, giving them added philatelic value and greater local interest. Mr. Padlock stated that persons posting letters for purely philatelic purposes should accompany them with a letter authorizing the postmaster to distinguish them from regular business mail. The new bi-colored six cent air mail stamp will be placed on sale Monday, Mr. Padlock stated.

75 Evergreen Trees Sold in Short Time

Potential buyers of evergreen trees reside in this community.

Seventy-five trees were purchased from Verne Hobeln, Cuba township, as the result of a five line advertisement in the Barrington Review as follows:

"Evergreens, Austrian Pine and Norway Spruce, 3 to 6 feet high. Reasonable. Verne Hobeln, 1 m. west of Barr, Chicago Highlands."

Mr. Hobeln reported that 46 to 48 percent responded to the ad in The Review. He withdrew the advertisement because he had sold all of the trees that he wished to this year.

Contest Filed in Prairie View School District 100 Election

Henry Krueger of Prairie View filed a contest in the Lake county circuit court Thursday over the election of George Holst as school director of District 100, Gridley school near Prairie View. The election was held April 8, and in his bill, Krueger questioned the right of a judge and clerk to throw out 17 of the 43 ballots cast at the election.

Holst was declared elected over Krueger by a vote of 13 to 12. Last week at the organization meeting of the school directors, Holst was named president of the board, and Louis Pohlman of Mundelein was named clerk. Helen Hahnfeldt of Mundelein is the third member.

The petition contesting Holst's election, filed by Runyard and Dehanna, was set before Judge Perry L. Persons on June 6.

Krueger alleged that at a caucus held by the school board before 8 p. m. on April 9, he and Holst were nominated. Ballots were supplied by the county superintendent of schools, W. C. Petty, as provided by law, and voting took place between 8 and 9 p. m.

Each voter had to write in the name of his candidate. Twenty-five wrote in the names of either Krueger or Holst and placed crosses in the boxes preceding the written names. The other 17 voters wrote in the names of either Krueger or Holst, but did not place the cross in the box.

These latter 17 ballots, Krueger claimed, were thrown out by the election officials erroneously contrary to the provisions of district school elections.

If the ballots had been counted, Krueger charged, he would have been elected by a vote of 25 to 20.

School Orchestra Wins State Honor at Normal Friday

Fourth Consecutive Year That Group Receives High
Rating

Barrington high school orchestra rated in first division at the state contest held at Normal Friday.

This will entitle the organization to enter the national festival to be held at the state capital next spring without competing in the state again.

Woodstock high school orchestra rated in first division also. The two orchestras did not tie for first place but both rated in first division.

The contest won by the local group this year is the fourth consecutive occasion that the local group has merited high honors in its division in state and national contests. In 1935 the group received a high award at the national music contest and in 1936 the district and state honors were won in class C.

The national championship was won at the contest held at Columbus, O., in 1937 for class C schools.

This year the Barrington school orchestra competed in class B. The classes are determined by school enrollment, class B being for those schools with enrollments numbering between 250 and 751 pupils. At the contest last Saturday there were several other schools competing that had greater enrollment than that of the Barrington high school. For the last three years the local organization was placed in class C.

It was decided at Columbus last year that no more national contests are to be held. Instead national regional meets will be sponsored and the Barrington orchestra will be competing in one.

Forty people in addition to the members of the orchestra went to the contest from Barrington.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Poppy Day Here for May 23

Ninth District Memorial Services in Barrington
Next Thursday

Memorial services for ninth district Legion Auxiliary members who have died during the last 12 months will be held at the Methodist church of Barrington at 8 p. m., Thursday, May 19, with all units of the district attending.

Arrangement for annual Poppy Day in Cook county communities will be discussed at the meeting. Preparations for the observance of poppy day locally Monday, May 23, are being completed by the Barrington unit of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ed. Olcott, committee chairman, announced today. Arrangement are being directed by the poppy day committee, assisted by a large corps of workers from the unit. Plans are being developed to distribute memorial poppies in every part of the village.

"Honor the War dead and aid the war's living victims, is the meaning of the memorial poppy," said Mrs. Olcott. "The poppy, that bloomed so strikingly among the trenches and battle graves in France and Belgium, became the flower of the dead during the war. Ever since the war it has been worn in all English-speaking countries annually as an individual tribute to the men who gave their lives in the conflict."

The Little Red Flower takes added significance from the fact that it is made by the war disabled, and that it contributes to the welfare of the disabled men and the dependent families of veterans. Part of each donation is turned over to the veterans who made it. A small part pays for the materials it was made from and the balance is used by the Auxiliary for local community service work.

Files Damage Suit

Gertrude Lensen has filed suit in the Cook county circuit court for $20,000 damages for injuries received March 28 when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a machine driven by W. A. Kolte at Algonquin road and Tonahy avenue. She alleges in the complaint that Kolte was negligent.

Shirley Temple Is Star of Week-End Feature at Catlow

Plays Role in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" Here
Sunday - Monday

When Lon Gehrig stepped up to bat for the first game of the 1938 season he recorded his 200th big league game, 1965 of which have been consecutive. He also completed his first venture in feature motion pictures, in co-starring role with singing cowboy Smith Ballew in "Rawhide," the thrilling western showing at the Catlow Saturday.

Saturday brings a double feature bill to the Catlow theatre patrons, "Little Miss Roughneck," with Leo Carillo and Edith Fellows playing the bill with "Rawhide."

Shirley Temple's newest nickname on the set of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" was Shirley McCarthy.

Reason, it seems, is that Shirley and her parents recently had dinner with Edgar Bergen at the home of friends. After dinner, Charlie McCarthy came out of his traveling case, and immediately proposed to Shirley!

Playing at the Catlow Sunday and Monday, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" stars Shirley Temple with Randolph Scott heading the stellar cast.

Phil Bloom, who once fought Jack Britton for the world's middleweight crown—and Bob Ferry, who battled the famous Joe Gans to a 30-round draw, will give the boxing fans a thrill in "Mr. Moto's Gamble," film thriller of murder in the squared circle.

Peter Lorre is starred as the famous international sleuth who solves the mystery when the picture plays at the Catlow Tuesday.

Double featured with "Mr. Moto's Gamble," is "Present to Romance," featuring Wendy Barrie, Kent Taylor and Misha Auer. It hurt Gary more than it did Claudette, but not in the same way!

When the script of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" called for Cooper to take the lovely Miss Colbert across his knee and give her a sound spanking, he flatly refused to be a party to such violence and threatened to leave the set until the scene was rewritten. When even the pleadings and threats of Producer-Director Ernst Lubitsch were ineffective, Miss Colbert stepped in and told Cooper that she insisted on strict adherence to the line of action called for. The lucky actor then weakens and went through with the beating.

This spanking is only one of the many rough-and-tumble sequences of this comedy of life among Europe's smart set which will start on Wednesday for a 3-day engagement at the Catlow. Supporting Miss Colbert and Cooper are a dozen well known Hollywood players, including Edward Everett Horton and David Niven.

Play Day Program Cancelled Monday by Public School

Prevalence of Measles Cases Given as Reason for Changing Plans

Plans for Play Day, which was to have been held at Northside park Friday for pupils of rural and village grammar schools, were cancelled Monday afternoon by E. S. Smith, superintendent of schools, following a conference with B. J. Kemp, chairman of the committee arranging the event.

The prevalence of measles and his belief that a large gathering would tend to spread the contagion were given by Mr. Smith as the reasons for cancelling the meet.

Play Day is an annual event sponsored by the public school for pupils of the rural schools in Cook and Lake counties and in St. Anne parochial and the local village schools. It was reported that nearly 500 pupils were expected to be present and to participate in the various athletic contests planned for the day.

Although the number of measles cases reported to date has not been large, it was stated that contacts in a large group might cause an increase.

The meet was definitely cancelled for this year due to approaching graduation exercises in the rural and local schools, and also because the contagion period for measles would extend several weeks.

Auxiliary to Send Reuben Baade to Boys State Camp

Two or more Barrington boys will participate in Boys State, summer self-governing camp operated under the auspices of the American Legion, Legion Auxiliary and other civic organizations at Springfield, June 19-25.

Reuben Baade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Baade, has been selected by the Legion Auxiliary as honor boy to be sent to Boys State by that organization. The organization made its selection at a meeting Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. John E. Frye, president, reported.

The Legion also will send a boy to Springfield. The post will make its selection at the next meeting, May 19.

The boys have a chance to be men—and learn for themselves how their government becomes just what they make it. Amidst all this talk of the faults of the American form of government, they have a chance to learn for themselves what their responsibilities will be when they become men and how they are the ones who make it conform to their needs.

They will take part in simulated, non-partisan "political campaigns," party caucuses, elections, and then they will handle for themselves the affairs of the city, county, state—learning as no other method can provide, just how to operate the government as a "machine" to make it provide the most of life, liberty, and happiness.

Hold Services for Mrs. C. McGraw, 77

Last rites for Mrs. Charlotte McGraw, who died Tuesday morning at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. Zeldorf, 118 E. Liberty street, were held at St. Anne church

Surviving her, in addition to Mrs. Zeldorf, are six children, Robert McGraw of Kelly Lake, Minn., Mrs. Florence Jourd, Mrs. Adeline Duke, Miss Helen McGraw and Mrs. Catherine Tetterton, all of Chicago, and William McGraw of Barrington, and one sister, Mrs. James McGraw of Cuba township.

Dealers Displaying Improved Types of New Refrigerators

1938 Models Featuring Many Improvements Along With Beauty

Mechanical refrigerators have reached a new peak in efficiency, beauty and convenience according to a preview of many well known makes now on display at local refrigerator dealers for refrigeration week May 16 to 21.

Black gleaming white surfaces, simple lines and neat hardware characterize the appearance of the new machines. Built to fit snugly into modern kitchens, these 1938 refrigerators represent the fine cooperation between home economists aware of the woman's point of view and engineers who are concerned with the mechanics of production.

New economy of operation is obtained by improved insulation and refrigerating mechanism. Profiting by many years of experience, manufacturers have simplified design of machinery to a point where current consumption is at a minimum, and long life of the mechanism is assured.

In addition to basic improvements in construction and operation, new refrigerators are equipped with a host of useful conveniences. Doors open at a touch of the lever. Shelves are made to slide out so that interiors are easily accessible. Lights automatically illuminate the inside of the cabinet when doors are opened. Interiors are arranged to accommodate tall bottles. There are utility baskets for eggs, containers for ice water, crisper pans, meat containers.

Ice cubes can be frozen more quickly and in greater quantities. Simple but effective devices quickly release ice cubes from the freezing trays.

Surveys made among thousands of users of automatic refrigerators show that it is easily possible to save enough money by the use of the refrigerator to pay for its initial and operating costs with some left over in the bargain.

Refrigerators save money because they keep food fresh and wholesome day after day, preventing food losses through spoilage, preserving leftovers and enabling the housewife to take advantage of quantity discounts and special bargain sales of food.

Every grocery store offers better prices for food bought in quantities. A large can of peas, for instance, is often several cents cheaper than the equivalent amount bought in smaller cans. The same applies to fruits, vegetables and meats. By storing purchases in the refrigerator and using as needed, a substantial saving can be made.

Then too, wise buyers can watch for bargains, buy at special prices and store their purchases in their refrigerators without fear of spoilage.

The modern housewife can plan a week's menus, buy her food in advance and use it as the need arises, secure in the knowledge her modern automatic refrigerator will keep it safely.

Refrigeration Part of Scientific Field

Electric refrigeration plays an important role in the ever-present war against disease conducted by science.

In the medical research experiments of the Pasteur Institute, for example, refrigeration has a featured role. It preserves bacteria cultures over long periods of time. The refrigerator to which these cultures are entrusted must maintain an even, low temperature without fluctuation, interruption or failure.

Refrigerator Saves by Keeping Leftovers Fresh—One of the important features of modern mechanical refrigerators is their ability to keep leftovers fresh and wholesome and to thereby effect a considerable saving by eliminating this common form of waste.

This world-famous institute, located in Paris, honored the American refrigeration industry by purchasing American-made refrigerators for use in its chemical and biological experimental work.

In honor of national refrigerator week, we offer the following recipe for delicious vanilla ice cream. It is easy to make, requires no stirring after being set in refrigerator trays and is always smooth.

VANILLA ICE CREAM

1 quart whipping cream.
1 cup granulated sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Whip cream until fluffy but not stiff and dry. Add sugar gradually, then vanilla. Pour into CHILLED refrigerator trays and freeze at most rapid freezing temperature.

For variety, other flavors may be added to this basic recipe, such as almond extract or melted chocolate. The vanilla ice cream, topped with sugared, fresh strawberries, is still our family favorite, however.

Plenty of ice cubes are needed for sparkling punch to whet your thirst; after a stiff game of ping pong. Here's a good recipe for that ever-welcome drink at parties:

SPARKLING PUNCH

3/4 cup grape juice.
3/4 cup lemon juice.
1 1/2 cups pineapple juice.
1 pint gingerale.

Combine fruit juices in jar and place in refrigerator to "ripen." Just before serving, add gingerale and pour over ice cubes.

In case you prefer a sherbet to a beverage, transform sparkling punch into sparkling ice by adding 3/4 cup corn syrup to the above mixture of fruit juices. Then add the gingerale and fold in 1 stiffly beaten egg white.

Pour in freezing container of ice cream freezer and freeze using a mixture of 3 parts crushed ice and 1 part rock salt.

The following recipes are also convenient for anyone who has a refrigerator:

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH MACARONI

Remove the centers from the desired number of tomatoes and fill with cooked and seasoned macaroni, topping with slices of cheese—or better yet, if the refrigerator divulges some freshly kept, leftover macaroni and cheese this may be used instead, with a buttered crumb topping. Chill until dinner time, then bake in a hot oven (400°) for about 20 minutes.

JELLIED MEAT LOAF

1 pkg. aspic-flavored gelatin.
1 cup boiling water.
1 1/2 cups crushed ice.
2 cups canned corned beef (ground).

Mix juice and sugar, stirring constantly. Add milk while stirring. Freeze either in refrigerator trays or regular freezer. If in the former, stir several times during the freezing.

Values of Keeping Foods Fresh Cited by Noted Authority

"If all housewives realized the value of keeping foods fresh for healthfulness as well as edibility, they would quickly adopt electric refrigeration," declared Miss Edna I. Sparkman, nationally known authority on home economics.

Miss Sparkman has made a thorough and comprehensive study of modern modes of refrigeration from a practical, as well as theoretical, viewpoint. She has supervised a great deal of refrigeration test work, written extensively for national magazines and is well known for radio household advice talks.

Death Rate Decrease Noted With Electric Refrigeration Use

In 1925, the death rate of children under one year of age was 52.9 per 1000 of population. In 1933 it was only 53.8 per 1000.

population—a reduction of 36%. It is interesting to note that mechanical refrigerators had little use in 1925 while in 1933 millions of homes were equipped with refrigerators. While in recent years, greater knowledge of cause of infant mortality and better sanitary conditions have done much to lessen the infant death rate, it is held by some that the mechanical refrigerator has contributed its share by keeping baby's food fresh and wholesome.

Attractive Prices Are Offered on New Refrigerator Units

Barrington refrigerators dealers are now offering well known makes of refrigerators at particularly attractive prices and terms. The average family size box can be bought for a price between $100 and $150 and payments can be arranged so that only a small portion of the family's monthly budget need be set aside for the purchase of a refrigerator.

Dealers point out that the great sales volume of refrigerators during the last few years make it possible for manufacturers to produce refrigerators more efficiently, and to pass on these savings.

Another factor that makes it easy to buy a modern refrigerator, is the fact that the owner of a refrigerator makes special savings in food costs, enough in most cases so that the refrigerator pays for itself. Housewives may buy in quantities, take advantage of special bargains and save loss of leftover foods when they have refrigerators in which they may safely store large amounts of food food several days.

THE PANACEA OF SPENDING

Some fallacies die hard, and among the toughest is the belief that increased governmental spending necessarily means "increased purchasing power" in the country and therefore more "prosperity."

Experience, however, gives no reason for supposing that an unbalanced budget or a heavy government spending program is either a necessity or an advantage in bad times. In 1921 we not only balanced our budget but actually retired the huge sum of more than a billion dollars in debt, yet we had a prompt and sharp recovery.

Yet the apostles of government spending view the question in a crudely mechanical way. They persist in believing that the money spent by government (at least that amount not offset by tax collections) must mean an addition to the total spending (purchasing power) in the nation. But they forget that private incomes are not spent automatically, that new enterprises are not started automatically, that men are not employed automatically. Before these things are done, men must have confidence; and if the federal budget should become more hopelessly out of balance than ever, the effect would probably be only to undermine confidence still further.

Government spending, instead of "bridging the gap," would in that case only widen the gap. Confidence can be restored only by reforming the tax laws and by other changes in legislation and in administration attitude as will indicate a genuinely sympathetic concern with the difficult problems of those upon whom the country must depend to employ labor and expand enterprise.

PROGRESS BEFORE PUNISHMENT

Speaking from the bench of his traffic court recently, a New York City magistrate read a formal statement: "We have reached," he said, "the peak of safety that can be accomplished by the punishment of the motorist."

Specifically, his complaints were against certain inadequacies and inefficiencies in the physical and technical system for controlling today's mammoth traffic volume—in the street system itself, in traffic signals, signs and other control devices, and the confusing lack of uniformity among such devices.

The magistrate's remarks hit at a situation which is fundamental to the whole motor traffic problem: The failure to provide the motorist with streets and highways made as safe as possible, but at the same time demanding from him an opinion of caution in his driving. Too much emphasis has been placed on the carelessness of the driver and not enough on the carelessness which allows removable physical hazards to remain in the street and highway pattern.

Industry, the national conservation bureau reminds us, long ago learned this lesson. Efforts to drag the working man into avoiding accidents, industrial management learned, were futile until he was first provided with safe working conditions and equipment. Just trying couldn't safeguard a worker in a hazardous environment. That management recognized and acted upon this principle is the fundamental reason why industrial accidents have been halved during the past 20 years.

If the driver is given facilities from which basic hazard has been removed to the greatest possible degree, and if he is governed by intelligent traffic laws intelligently enforced, the major responsibility for traffic accidents devolves upon him. Then we shall make real headway not only in bringing motor traffic under control but in greatly facilitating traffic movement.

LABOR AND THE PUBLIC

There is real significance in the facts recently revealed by a careful, dispassionate poll of a representative cross-section of Americans on the question of unrestrained activities of labor agitators and the unions they rule so dictatorially.

The poll, conducted by Fortune magazine, showed a 3-to-1 majority recommending legislation to curb union rule of American workers and their employers.

To qualify the poll, it may be pointed out that it was conducted by the same investigators and in the same manner as the poll which two years ago was only 1 per cent in error in forecasting the plurality of Mr. Roosevelt in the presidential election.

Every state in the union, every race, religion, and "economic class"; every classification of profession and labor and every political affiliation was included in the poll on this question of current importance.

It is not difficult to understand the sentiment expressed by those canvassed in the poll when one looks carefully at the record of labor unions in the last few years.

America is not designed to progress by such harsh methods. In fact, progress is reversed when violence is allowed to dictate our rights. That is why Americans overwhelmingly want it stopped.

WHY NOT SAVE THAT MUCH?

The senate finance committee in its deliberations on a new tax bill readily reached the conclusion that one of the major contributions to the present depression was the undistributed profits tax.

The committee moved to repeal the tax or seriously modify it. But in rushed the treasury with the cry that to do this would cut revenues by some $40,000,000 and that other taxes would have to be found to replace the profits tax if repealed.

This WEEK in WASHINGTON

By RALPH E. CHURCH
Representative, 10th Congressional District

Washington, D. C., May 7.—Far more important than the addition of revenue which would be obtained by the removal of intergovernmental tax exemptions is the principle of justice and equity in bearing the costs of government. The great democracy. All owe allegiance to and receive services from federal, state and local governments. The costs should be distributed fairly and equitably. And of greater significance than the actual taxes to be paid by the destruction of the great reservoir of tax exempt securities and tax exempt income is the contribution which such a policy would make in simplifying our fiscal problems.

It is impossible to determine accurately the amount of revenue which is lost annually by the federal government and the states by virtue of this great bulk of tax exempt securities and income. While exact data to make an accurate estimate is not available, the experts here are held by an informal statement that the additional revenue obtainable is not as great as commonly supposed.

The nature of distribution of government bonds by types of investors must be taken into account. Many are held by institutions and individuals who would not have to pay any tax even though the interest on government bonds were included in taxable income. For instance, many bonds are held by educational and charitable institutions not subject to tax, and many are held by individuals whose income, including the bond interest, does not bring them within the lowest income tax bracket.

With such factors taken into account, the amount of additional revenue which the federal government would obtain by the removal of bond exemptions would probably be around $70 million annually. That is the estimate made by one of the experts in the treasury department, using the present income level in the United States as a basis. Compared with the total taxes paid the federal government, and the amount of revenue derived from other individual sources it is not a very large sum. It is certainly much smaller in amount than popularly supposed.

A careful examination of the question of reciprocal tax exemptions of government employees will likewise surprise one as to the relatively small amount of revenue which would be obtained by the removal of these exemptions. The treasury department has estimated that there are about 2,500,000 state and local employees. But their average income is only $1436, which is less than the $2500 exemption allowed by the federal law to every married person in determining his taxable income. It is thus estimated by the experts of the treasury department that if all these employees were subject to federal income taxation less than $15 million would be obtained.

But, as stated at the outset, much more important to the revenue lost and obtainable in connection with these tax exemptions is the justice in having an equal operation of our tax laws. Much more important is a stable and uniform application of our taxing system. It is significant that on the matter of government salary exemptions allow no less than 300 published rulings and that the great majority of our people believe that this great reservoir of tax exemptions is unsound and undesirable.

Where there seems to be a substantial difference of opinion on this subject is on the method of removing the exemptions. The president recommended the enactment of a "short and simple statute." But we are confronted with the fact that the intergovernmental exemptions have been created by constitutional limitations on the taxing power established by the supreme court. They were established on the principle that the federal government should not interfere with functions of the state governments and vice versa.

The question has raised is this: Should we enact a statute removing the exemptions, which the supreme court may readily declare invalid, or should we obtain an amendment to the constitution?

"Buddy Learns to Share"

By EDITH BRANDIS

The summer that Buddy was five Mrs. Sandusky helped him make his first garden. A man came to dig up the ground where vegetables were to be planted and in one corner he made the earth very fine and soft for flowers.

part was for Mother and part for Buddy. They laid off rows for plants and made ready.

Buddy went with Mother to the nursery. For early flowers they bought plants that were small, and in a short time they had pink, red, purple and white petunias and more than a dozen poppy plants with fringed blossoms in yellow, orange and red.

Buddy and Mother each had four rows of sinlias, but they did not come into bloom until later. When they did the garden was "flowery all over," as Buddy said, "You may cut all the flowers from my plants every morning. We will divide them; some will be for the house and some for each of you to give away. But we'll let Buddy decide exactly what he chooses, and we shall see what happens, for I think the flowers will teach him a lesson he needs."

As Sister and Reg cut Mother's flowers and more buds appeared, Buddy's plants bloomed, and before long the blossoms dried. Then the plants began to turn yellow. One sinlia dried up. Buddy looked at Mother's bed blooming so gorgeously, then at his own, and began to wonder what was the matter.

When he told his mother, she took his hand and went with him. She called his attention to the dried flower on a petunia plant and showed him the little seed pod at its base. Buddy found several more. They took off the lids and shook the seeds upon a piece of paper.

Then they gathered all the dry blossoms from the sinlias that were drying, and took them to pieces. Then Mother said, "See if you can find seeds on my plants."

He searched them all but found none, no petunia boxes, no dry sinlia heads.

"Now Buddy, this is a lesson about plants you will want to remember. The work of a plant is to make seeds. When its work is done it dies."

"Like my sinlia?"

"Yes, Buddy. If you cut flowers every day, they cannot make seeds and they bloom all summer and mine are doing. So, Buddy, you have to choose, do you want seeds or do you want blooms?"

"I want blooms," he said.

"The plan shares blooms with you. To be fair you'll have to share with others."

"I'll share. I will not be stingy any more. I'll share with you and sister, and everybody."

"Then bring the clippers and I'll tell you what to do."

Under his mother's directions, Buddy clipped every blossom from the plants, leaving only buds, then he showered his plants with a sprinkler. In a day or two he had flowers, and after that, he cut them every day, and shared them, as he had planned.

In the late summer, under Mrs. Sandusky's direction, he let his choicest plants keep some of their blossoms so as to get seeds. These seeds he waited ripen, and finally he took them off and put them away in envelopes to save for another year.
