

"The Adventures of Marco Polo" Coming to Catlow

"Three Blind Mice" to Start Three Day Engagement Wednesday

Robert Taylor's wardrobe in his newest picture cost the unbelieveable sum of $20!

Although Taylor holds the reputation of being one of the best-dressed men of the screen, he discards the title temporarily for his role in "Three Comrades," playing currently at the Catlow. This film consists of two-second-hand, ready-made suits bought as unsold items in a Main Street store and a full-dress suit.

On Saturday for one day only, the Catlow theatre presents Victor McLaglen, Brian Donlevy and Louise Horvick (Gypsy Rose Lee) in "Battle of Broadway."

The Adventures of Marco Polo, filmed from a screen play by Robert E. Sherwood, was directed by Archie Mayo. Gary Cooper, in the title role, is supported by a notable cast including Sigrid Gurie, Norwegian importation who makes her film debut as a Chinese Princess with whom he falls in love; Basil Rathbone, Ernest Truex, George Barbier, Blanche Barnes and Louis Calhern. It is billed for Sunday and Monday.

An unusual character actress who has been stealing scenes from players for 15 years makes her latest appearance in "Swiss Miss." Laurel and Hardy musical production coming Tuesday to the Catlow.

She is Dinah, veteran comedy burro, trained by Tony Campa, Marc, caretaker of the Roach ranch for 15 years.

Dinah has appeared in more than 50 shorts and features throughout that period. A favorite pet of the studio aides, the burro is completely camera-wise, and the Roach company has refused several offers up to $500 for her purchase by other studios.

With the completion of his comedy role in "Three Blind Mice," stars Loretta Young and Joel McCrea, with David Niven, Stuart Erwin, Marjorie Weaver, Pauline Moore, Blanche Barnes and Jane Darwell in the cast.

CARY

CARY.—The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Episcopal church held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Johnson Thursday afternoon, July 21, with Mrs. G. Boomer assisting the hostess. Twelve members and three guests were present. A pot luck picnic is planned for the next meeting to be held on August 4 at the Mrs. George Harper summer cottage at Tuxedo Beach near Rowson's Bridge.

The grandparents of Marilyn Krenz, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Krenz, entertained at a family dinner Sunday in honor of her first dinner. The little miss was well received.

Would you like some cookie recipes today? It's a good idea to bake on occasional cool days. Cookies may be packed in tins that will keep them crisp and good for several weeks (if the family will keep away from the cookie jar!).

The following are excellent with lemonade to which a sprig of mint has been added:

NUT SQUARES

1 cup butter.
2 cups sugar.
4 eggs, beaten.
3 cups flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
Vanilla.

Bake in 275° oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Cut in squares or oblong strips while warm.

If your family is chocolate-minded, you'll adore this recipe for chocolate cookies with chocolate chips.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

1 cup brown sugar.
1/2 cup melted butter.
2 squares chocolate.
1 egg.
1 cup sweet milk.
2 cups flour.
1/2 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
Vanilla.

Melt chocolate in butter. Add sugar, cream well. Add other ingredients slowly. Bake in greased tin in moderate oven.

ICING

Melt 2 squares chocolate in 4 tablespoons cream. Add 1 egg, well beaten. Vanilla. Salt. Powdered sugar until mixture is stiff enough to spread.

Ales, Medicinal Plant

Among the Greek physicians, ales was a most important medicinal plant. Centuries earlier, the idea of binding fresh plant leaves of various kinds on burns or other wounds was a favorite of Egyptian surgeons. Homeric heroes bound up their wounds in the same way with herbs and oil. Roman expenditures found the savage Germans adept in the art. European settlers in America learned from the Indians precisely similar skills.

The Final Duck

Picture a quill diver in cut and appearance from other surface feeding ducks. Their necks are long, and the pointed, long central tall feathers which give the ducks their name are an unfailing mark of identification. The male is gray and white, but the slender female is streaked brown similar to a female mallard, but without the white-bordered blue speculum on the wing.

"The best way to give an essential library to others is to buy necessary safety devices, neither liberty nor safety," said Benjamin Franklin.

Suburban Building During June Above Past Eight Months

A three million dollar month, the first since October of last year, is the grafting result of the survey of new building in June in the Chicago suburban region by Greenbaum Investment company, the total amount reported by the commissioners of 63 communities being $3,052,930.

This compares with $2,876,452 for June of last year and is 80 percent better than $2,037,576 of May of this year. The increase is due to a large gain in home building and to a number of churches and other institutional projects.

Building commissioners of suburban towns reported 253 homes started in June, to cost $1,058,000, up 20 percent over the two next best months of the year, April and May, and comparing well, in value at least, with the total of June of last year, which started 301 homes to cost $1,905,397.

Alterations, additions and repairs to homes, always an important item for the building industry, amounted to $270,283 in June, comparing with $190,558 in June, 1937 and $249,106 in May of this year.

Miss Billings Weds

V. Kemper

Miss Portia Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Billings, became the bride of Vernon Kemper, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kemper, at a pretty wedding in the family home, 603 S. Cook street, Saturday afternoon.

White doves, shafts daintily powdered, decorated the living room where the ceremony was held. Rev. W. A. Stauffer read the single ring service, the young couple standing at the fireplace, flower-decked for the wedding by Miss Mary Booth.

The bride was lovely in white dotted lace, ribbon trimmings. She wore white flowers in her hair and carried a bouquet of the same. Her sister, Miss Mary Billings, was maid of honor in a blue tulip floor length gown.

Carl Billings, a brother of the bride, was best man. Mr. Billings gave his daughter in marriage.

Following the service, a wedding supper was served at a table attractively decorated with flowers and graced with a wedding cake in white. Members of the immediate families of the bride and groom were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Kemper will make their home in Barrington after their return from a short honeymoon. The bride is a graduate of Barrington high school, is employed at Jewell Tea. The groom lived most of his life in Barrington but is a graduate of Palatine high school. He is employed at the Standard Service Station.

Meister-Carteron

Wedding Saturday

Miss Helen Meister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Meister, 114 E. Liberty street, became the bride of Russell S. Carteron, son of Charles Carteron of Madison, Wis., at the Christ Episcopal church of Waukegan Saturday afternoon at 4:30. Rector Ganster read the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. John Daechsler, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, were the attendants.

The bride wore a black and white gown with a wide shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Daechsler was attired in an aqua sharkskin frock and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Juneau hotel in Milwaukee for the two couples.

Mr. Carteron is employed at the Jewel Tea company and Mr. Carteron at the Greenfield Grill. They will make their home at 214 E. Liberty street.

Miss Docka is Bride of Harold Ankele

Miss Lenora Docka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Docka of Dundee avenue, and Harold Ankele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ankele of Main street, were married at the bride's home Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. S. L. Thompson, pastor of the Lutheran church of Oak Park, officiating.

The bride was attired in blue lace and carried an arm bouquet of white roses. Miss Vivian Docka, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a pink crepe gown and carried a bouquet of white roses. Robert Ankele served his brother as best man.

Following a wedding dinner served at the bride's home the couple left for a short motor trip. They will make their home on W. Station street.

"Dangerous Corner" to Be Presented at Summer Theatre

Barrington summer theatre goers will be entertained with a psychological mystery, "Dangerous Corner" by J. B. Priestley, which they have to see in summer. This is the week-end, On Friday, Saturday and Sunday the Goodman theatre players from Chicago under the direction of Sidney Bresser will present their fourth play of the season while playing at popular prices.

Mary Monahan, the producer, is to take her first part of the season. The cast includes Ann Gilligan, Nan McFarland, Elaine Fausther, Billie Steagle, Alan Hancock and Robert Gist.

The mystery, first produced in New York City in 1932, shows how the gradual revelation of the truth about a murdered man disrupts his family and friends and shows his family and friends and shows George Jean Nansen was one of it that "provided the only intelligent new play that the Broadway stage has uncovered thus far in a season."

Performances begin at 8:45 p.m. delight saving time, in the little old opera house in Woodstock. Plays for the future include: "Biography," "Night Must Fall," and "Personal Appearance."

Summer, good rug is considered too fine to be put on the floor; instead the housekeeper hangs it on the wall as a tapestry, or uses it as a covering for a bed or table.

A sight both in Bucharest and in other Romanian cities is gypsy bands with trained dancing bears.

The gypsies hook their bears and the animals start to perform a crowd will gather like magic to see the fun. Gypsies who can not get a living in this easy fashion turn to the making of wrought iron work. Their work is very good, and one can see many examples of it ornamenting the best homes in Bucharest.

Soldiers Wore Gorgeous Uniforms to Blend Enemy

The British soldier got his red coat because "it was the best uniform to impress the Germans in the early days of the war." In those days uniforms worn in battle were gorgeous; soldiers wore wigs which made them look tall in order to terrify the enemy. George Washington, commander in chief of the American forces at Cambridge, recalls a writer in the Boston Globe.

The Colonials had no drill, but they had a reputation for being better fighters than the British. They were in the field in 1776. It was difficult to obtain cloth for uniforms. General Washington recommended a garb composed of homespun, with coats cut like hunting shirts and long trousers.

The Colonials had no drill, but they had a reputation for being better fighters than the British.

Some of the early religious men saw in the cross the crown of thorns. Others thought it was similar to some of the five stamens were the five wounds, to others,

wrote Hendrick Hodge in Nature

Magazine, they represented the hammer used to drive the nails, represented by the three-knotted string. Five stamens, he said, represented the five petals, stood for the ten apostles.

Peter, who denied, and Judas, who betrayed, were left out of the reckoning. The innumerable tiny little leaves of some species were held to represent the smaller parts of the emblem of the Passion of our Lord.

If the delicate beauty of the flower had not been a source of satisfaction to man it would certainly have been, for certain species supposed to be medicinal, and in some cases are highly perfumed and appear often on tables in the tropics.

Connect Passion Flower With Lord's Crucifixion

The name passion flower arose from the resemblance of the flower parts to important incidents of Christ's crucifixion, the resemblance being first pointed out by early Italian and Spanish travelers. Some of the early religious men saw in the crown of thorns the cross of thorns. Others thought it was similar to some of the five stamens were the five wounds, to others, wrote Hendrick Hodge in Nature Magazine, they represented the hammer used to drive the nails, represented by the three-knotted string. Five stamens, he said, represented the five petals, stood for the ten apostles. Peter, who denied, and Judas, who betrayed, were left out of the reckoning. The innumerable tiny little leaves of some species were held to represent the small parts of the emblem of the Passion of our Lord.

Legend and superstition have long been associated with these beautiful blossoms. In "Plant Lore" and "Legends and Lore," it is stated that when the Spaniards first saw the rich blossoms of this plant hanging from the branches of the forest trees they "regarded the magnific blossoms as a token that the Indians should be converted to Christianity." They saw in the several parts the emblems of the Passion of our Lord.

If the delicate beauty of the flower had not been a source of satisfaction to man it would certainly have been, for certain species supposed to be medicinal, and in some cases are highly perfumed and appear often on tables in the tropics.

CUT AWAY THE UNDERBRUSH

The real cause of the railroad problem is that for more than thirty years we have not allowed the railroads to be run as a business under fair and equal conditions of competition, observed J. J. Peltier, president of the Association of American Railroads. They have been regulated as if they were a monopoly, while at the same time the public resources have been used lavishliy to create and subsidize forms of transportation—by land, water, and air.

We hear much of the lines being overcapitalized—yet in 1910 the industry had outstanding bonds and stocks with a total par value of $987 for each thousand dollars invested, as against $721 per thousand in 1936. The ratio of debt to investment for bonds totaled $606 for each thousand dollars of investment in 1910 and only $442 per thousand in 1936.

We hear much about the industry's fixed charges being excessively high. Yet in 1937 fixed charges were less in proportion to revenue than in any year prior to 1917—when the industry was most prosperous.

Lastly, as everyone knows, service has improved in every way, and startling progress has been made in operating efficiency.

The only solution to the railroad problem appears to lie in a revision of our regulatory philosophy. The lines must be allowed some of the privileges of their competitors. They must be given rates adequate to meet costs, and they must be given greater latitude in "pricing" their product, which is transportation. As Mr. Ripley said, once the railroads are given a square deal, "you will no longer have to worry about the railroad problem."

It is believed by many that a special session of congress will be called early in the fall to deal with the railroads. If that happens, the senators and representatives will be wise if they cut away the underbrush of fallacy and unsubstantiated opinion surrounding railroad affairs, and go straight to the heart of the issue—which is reasonable rates, and a flexible and fair system of regulation that will treat all transportation agencies equally, penalizing and favoring none.

"HOODWINKING THE PUBLIC"

The Hartford Courant recently printed a long editorial discussing a grand jury investigation in a middle-sized Connecticut city. The investigation involved the relations of city officials with a so-called utility rate expert who has been engaged to help bring about rate reductions. The jury's disclosures were astounding. Commenting, the Courant said:

"This is not the first instance where politicians have seized upon a utility company to further their own ends. The country is full of utility baiters who seek to gain popularity for themselves by representing light and power companies as greedy beyond measure, and who promise to put them in their place. It matters not that every state has a utilities commission to determine what are and what are not fair rates and to redress any legitimate grievance to consumers. It is not to that quartet that the politicians usually look. They put on a campaign of their own, make a great noise about it, and often succeed in hoodwinking the public."

The utility industry is surrounded with legislative safeguards for the protection of the consumer and the investor. In every state save one, there is a utilities commission with broad and sweeping powers for investigating utilities, fixing the values which determine the rate base, and establishing rates. Even if a utility fails to its chances of getting away with graft or exploitation of the consumer would be practically nil.

For twenty years or more, the cost of every item included in the government's cost-of-living index has tended to rise steadily, but electric power is an exception—it costs less today than at any time in history. So far as service is concerned, every householder knows the vast progress that has been made.

Publicly-owned utilities, on the other hand, are not subject to regulation. They become fertile fields for political patronage and control. And by and large, their record has been one of waste and failure—even as the record of the private utilities has been one of economy, efficiency and achievement. When the public awakens to this fact—and many recent elections, in which proposals for creating public utility districts have been voted down, indicate that it is—the politicians will have to look elsewhere for something to bait.

TAX TERMITES EATING YOU

Those who still believe in the ancient fallacy that the "rich can pay the cost of government" will be startled by a recent survey showing that if everyone had to turn over to the government all income in excess of $5,000 a year, the sum collected would pay only one-fifth of the total cost of government—federal, state and local.

In other words, the great bulk of taxes are "hidden taxes"—and they are paid principally by the person of small and moderate means. A loaf of bread, for example, is taxed 57 times. The tax collector gets his share when you pay your rent, buy a suit of clothes, go to a movie or do almost anything else.

A treasury report shows that of the 120,000,000 people in the U. S., 48 had incomes of $1,000,000 or more in 1937. Their aggregate income was $18,000,000. If every penny was squeezed out of them it would not meet the government expenditures for 48 hours.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

"If you can't beat them, join them" long has been considered sound political advice.

Recent events in the democratic party are causing many campaign rail-sitters to reevaluate the motto. That is that the last primaries marked for "purge" in this year's primaries, which originally was reported to contain nine names, has dwindled to three.

The three names are Tydings of Maryland, George of Georgia, and Smith of South Carolina. If the judgment of some administrative officials is valid, only the name of Tydings may remain by year's end. These sources say that Smith is stronger in his state than was expected and that the presidential nomination in Georgia does not mean necessarily that he will advocate the defeat of George for renomination.

Of the nine, Senator Tydings has voted most frequently against new deal legislation. Maryland presents a case about which new dealers say that nothing will be lost by the administration even if a republican senator is elected in November.

In the states of the other senators it is different. Local political situations and maneuvering for strength in the 1940 democratic convention complicate the problem.

Members of the unofficial "elimination committee" of white house advisers wanted at first to replace all nine sitting senators with "honest" franklin Roosevelt supporters. But they gave up against some hard political realities when they set out to make the effort.

The first list came in Iowa, where an attempt to defeat Senator Gillette for renomination failed. Senator Gillette was supported by the state party organization and resentment against "interference from Washington" was expressed.

Next in line was Senator Van Nuys, an opponent of the new deal bill, like the others on the list. State leaders undertook to read him out of the party months ago.

A reconsideration began with the approach of the state nominating convention on July 12. According to reports credited in the capital, these factors entered into the decision:

Van Nuys running independently would split the democratic vote and benefit the republican ticket. Democratic candidates for lesser offices would suffer accordingly.

All of Paul V. McNutt, the governor general of the Philippines, who is mentioned for presidential nomination, feared a split might cost it to him for the national convention on July 16.

Word was sent from Washington that nomination of Van Nuys would be "acceptable" if a costly split might result otherwise.

The result was a decision by state leaders to invite Senator Van Nuys to seek a renomination. Whether the senator actually will be renominated remains to be seen.

In four states, local support for the incumbent senators apparently has outweighed administration disfavor that slight dispute is in prospect. The states are Colorado, Connecticut, Missouri and Nevada.

Two international conferences—one at Evian, France, convened by the United States, and the other at Geneva, Switzerland, by Great Britain—have just about covered in their scope the world's tendencies and most infectious spots.

At Evian, delegates from 32 nations, headed by the United States' representative, Myron C. Taylor, 64-year-old former steel magnate, began to draft plans for ameliorating the plight of hundreds of thousands of political refugees.

In Geneva, 120 delegates from 24 nations, the United States not included, completed plans for the evacuation of foreign volunteers in Spain as to localizing the conflict which, according to foreign observers, now appears nearing its final and conclusive stage.

To the delegates sitting in the assembly room of the Hotel Royal perched above the shores of the sparkling blue of Lake Geneva, the problem of finding offers of states not in the least interested by the nations themselves.

Mr. Taylor in his opening address energetically asserted:

"If some governments are to continue to tax large sections of their populations lightly upon a distressed and unprepared world, then there is a catastrophic human calamity which can result only in social and moral and general international strife."

He did acknowledge the fact that the "problem" is so vast and so complex that we probably can do more at the initial intergovernmental meeting than put in motion the machinery, and correlate it with existing machinery, that will, in the long run, contribute to a practical amelioration of the conditions of the unfortunate human beings."

For further narrowing the scope of the conference's activities, Mr. Taylor repeated to the delegates the suggestion, previously made by both President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, that any action taken by the delegates must take place "within the framework of existing laws and practices of the participating governments."

In the case of the United States, Mr. Taylor pointed out, consolidation of the German and American quotas now permits 27,370 immigrants from the Third Reich in one year.

Other delegates were not slow in pointing out the virtues of their government's treatment of the refugee problem. Lord Winterbotham, leading the British delegation, called for more humane treatment of the refugees.

The Four Seasons

The civil or tropical year, the one commonly used in the measure of time, is the period which elapses from the sun's appearance on one of the tropical circles to its return to the same. It varies very slightly, about 5 hours 48 minutes 48.7 seconds.

Astronomically considered, the four seasons begin at the equinoctial or the solstitial points. The summer solstice is in the meridian, passing through the point where the sun touches the tropic of Cancer; the winter solstice is the meridian passing through the point where it touches the Tropic of Capricorn; and the equinoctial points are the points at which the sun's path or ecliptic crosses the celestial equator.

All these points are according to very exact astronomical laws, from year to year; and so the precise times when the seasons begin are masters of mathematical calculations.

Kenosha Team Will Be Opponent for First Appearance

Locals Suffer Third Defeat From Bats of Bartlett Sunday, 4-0

The Barrington baseball team again dropped a game to Bartlett, this time by a score of 4 to 0, at Bartlett last Sunday. This was the third straight loss to Bartlett, the score of the other games being 6 to 3, 12 to 1.

Storms of Bartlett pitched the slant of home, holding the locals to six scattered hits and striking out nine batters. At Bartlett hurled for the locals and gave up only five hits. Four runs scored and four errors were made by Bartlett.

Elmer and McCarty socked out doubles for Barrington in the third and fourth innings, respectively, while Humbrecht got Bartlett's only two-bagger in the second inning.

The local team will play their first home game on the diamond at Spinner Park next Sunday. A strong Kenosha team will invade the local park on that day. Kenosha holds a 14 to 2 victory over Manager Bill Behringer's men. Game time will be 2:00 p.m.

F. Grubmeier and Kay Top Wrestling Card at Grayslake Friday

With local wrestling followers still discussing the sensational Jim McMillen-King Kong match of last week promoters are preparing another sizzler for this Friday, July 29, that should be a wild and wooly affair. Ray Kay, rough and tumble Chicago's King Kong will pit the last of his remarkable career going against Fred "Legs" Grubmeier, the famous Iowa scors king who has been crushing them all into submission with his million dollar legs, in the feature attraction at Peg's Grayslake arena.

Kay and Grubmeier have both been consistent winners at the Lake county sporting center over the past three years, but each has adopted a different and more different manner. While Rough Rudy has been fighting all opposition with barroom-brawl tactics, tanky Grubby has chalked up his victories with downright wrestling knowledge and an amazing pair of legs. So it will be a test of real wrestling ability against strength and rough stuff Friday. Each is out to get a match with McMillen and the loser will go out of the running.

A special event features the return of Rudy Silverstein, ex-Illini national wrestling champion, present state pro titleholder, and generally recognized as "the uncrowned champion of the world." He will be up against a tough one, Otto Schnebly, member of the famous clearwater wrestling brothers, and is expected to provide some real competition for Rudy.

In the preliminary bouts of the real greats of wrestlingdom makes his local debut. He is Fredrick Von Schaecht, 6 foot 6 inch, 245 pound giant German heavyweight champion. He is remembered as the only man ever to hold the record to a draw, and one of the few ever to beat Jim McMillen. Von Schaecht is popular, and this boy has his robe Friday to do battle with another giant, George Mansor, burly Abraham. In the other preliminary El Sayre, Waukegan and former Illini football captain, tangles with tough Jack Conley, the Boston Slugger.

to clean up the plant.

The junk man is haunting the streets of Arlington Heights this week in hopes that he will locate a smooth talking stranger who sold him the old Hume Pipe Co. plant in the eastern part of that city for $50. The plant, unoperated for the past several years, was used to construct large sewer tile dur ing the building boom in 1928 and 1929. According to the junk man, the smooth talker approached him with the plan of buying up the old equipment for $50. Completing the deal, he took a load of junk wood, Annabel Wills 26, Des Plaines.

Three-Treed Sixth Defenseless. The three-leaved sloth of the tropical forests of the New World, is about the size of a squirrel. It is poorly equipped to combat any enemy. It doesn't fight, hide or run away. It is an example of perpetual laziness and spends most of its time, when not eating leaves, hanging down from a tree branch grasped firmly by the three toes on each foot.
