Hold Rededication Service at Salem Ev. Church Sunday

Event Marks Completion of Remodeling Program of Building

Sunday marked a special occasion at the Salem Evangelical church for at that time, members and friends of the church celebrated the completion of the remodeling and redecorating program which was begun several months ago. This work was completed at a total cost of $23,836.15. Two special offerings were received on Sunday for this work. A birthday offering was received during the Sunday school at which time most of the pupils in attendance gave as many pennies as they were years old or more with the result that $136.46 was received. At the regular service on Sunday morning a second offering was received which amounted to $136.60. Only a small amount of a little over $10.00 remains as a deficit and this is covered by pledges.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the various classrooms throughout the church were festive with flowers, pictures on the walls, rugs on the floors and in other ways made attractive. The various classes purchased curtains and in some cases drapes for the windows.

Following the rededication service at 4:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon the large congregation of visitors made a pilgrimage through the church and gathered in the church parlor for a musical program and refreshments. Considering the gift of money and various items of equipment there were three special contributions made. Fred W. Otto, who had been hired by the contractors to do the plastering, plastered two large additional walls in the basement without extra charge which added to the attractiveness of the basement. The second gift was a beautiful silver chalice given to the church by A. J. Hagenauer and family. Recognition of this gift was a part of the Sunday afternoon exercises of rededication.

The third gift was a beautiful 4 foot by 6 foot picture which was presented by Miss Amy Anderson, superintendent of the primary-junior department. The title of this picture is "The Children's Friend." It is the only one of its kind in the country. Mrs. M. H. Aarund of Fort Dodge, Mrs. Aarund is the wife of Rev. R. H. Aarund, district superintendent of the Iowa conference of the Evangelical church. Rev. Aarund was reared in Barrington and was a member of the Salem Sunday school and church during his boyhood days. This painting has been hung in the primary-junior department.

The program of remodeling and redecorating included the reshingling of the balance of the roof which was not finished three years ago, the enlarging of the entrance into the basement on the East side of the church, the removing of two stairways which were replaced by a larger and more efficient one, the making of several additional classrooms, the plastering of the completed parts of the church which had not been finished and painting of the entire basement. After improvements were completed in the primary-junior department this section was redecorated.

Sporting Dog Field Trials Here in Oct.

The two weeks of October 15 and 16, 1937, will be interesting for those local residents who like sporting breeds of dogs. On October 15 and 16, the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial club of Illinois will hold its annual trial. The tentative site is the Dr. P. Magnusson estate on route #3, three miles southwest of Barrington. On the 22nd and 23rd the Midwest Field Trial club, the first organization to have its trials held in the area, will hold its trials near Barrington. They were held on Gray's lake, north of here, last year.

Flitcher Garlock, president of the Midwest club, has announced three judges for retriever stakes in the trial. They are: Gaylord Denney of Lake Forest, Arthur P. Moeller of Aurora and Walter Rosier of New York City. Rosier is secretary of the Chesapeake Bay club of America and one of the best known eastern authorities on retriever breeds.

Protect Children at Crossings

The safety of Barrington school children crossing intersections in and around public and St. Anne parochial schools is being assured as best it can by the functioning of patrols selected in each of the schools at the start of classes this fall. Safety work has been conducted in both of the schools for several years but this is the first time patrol boys have had their pictures published in The Review.

Forty years of service in the community were reviewed by members of the department at the camp grounds. By coincidence the celebration was held on the same date that was officially fixed as the annual meeting of the department when it adopted its constitution in July of 1897.

The fire department was organized following a meeting held on June 15, 1898, and called for purpose of forming a department committee to draft a constitution. E. Heise, who now resides in Barrington, was named temporary chairman and the late Henry Brockway was elected secretary.

The constitution was adopted in July of the same year and in the meantime a petition had been circulated to obtain volunteers for fire fighters. Thirty-nine men signed up as members, but this number quickly dwindled to 20 when it was discovered that some of them would be required to practice and devote some time to the department.

Among the original signers were the following: E. Heise, M. M. Blocks, George Stilesthofer, H. T. Schroeder, John Brommelkamp, F.

Prepare Sketches for Proposed WPA Job at North Park

Plans and sketches are being prepared for the proposed improvement of Barrington Northside park through a federal aid grant under the direction of commissioners of the park district.

Hugh H. Calkins, president of the board, stated Wednesday that the plan will be drawn by Harry VanMiddelworth, R. W. Work and J. L. Bell.

Mr. VanMiddelworth is sketching the lay-out of tennis, croquet and squash courts while Mr. Work is designing a wading pool for children. Mr. Bell is making landscaping sketches for the new property and also for the park entrance of Hough street, on property recently purchased by the Barrington Lions club.

The park district is seeking financial assistance from local organizations in sharing the expense.

At a Lions club meeting several weeks ago it was brought out that a WPA project might be feasible.

District Scout Meeting

There will be a meeting of the northern district executive committee of the Northwest Suburban council of boy scouts at the home of District Chairman H. H. Calkins, 814 Grove Avenue, Thursday evening, Sept. 15, at eight o'clock.

46 Are Wounded in Two Raids This Week; Dog Pack Blamed

Fifty-eight ewes and lambs were killed and 46 were wounded in two raids made on Jewel Tea Co. flocks this past week. The attacks are believed to have been made by a pack of dogs, but there were no eyewitnesses to the killings.

The dogs, which are owned by property south and east of the Jewel Tea plant. Some company sheep were killed several years ago, but the number was smaller than this time.

If the dogs had not had valiantly sought to escape from the running attacks of their killers. Fifty-two were killed then, among them 35 lambs, and 16 were wounded.

Following the first attack, a watchman was placed on guard but he was removed Monday when the killers failed to put in an appearance. Monday night or Tuesday morning the killers again attacked, slaying six sheep and wounding 12.

On both occasions, however, the invaders failed to get at prime rams, which are valued very highly.

The loss, tentatively placed at $400 with the possibility of being higher if some of the wounded sheep die, will be sustained by Lake County. A special fund, created

Receive Assurance of Aid for Paving Dundee Ave. South

Local Delegation Interviews W. Busse Monday at Mt. Prospect

An assurance that he would give his program his full support was made by Cook County Commissioner William Busse to Village Trustees John J. Carroll, R. F. Kocher Sr. and Rudolph Berg, Dr. A. G. Glesek, Barrington township representative, and H. R. Brantingham, prominent democratic party worker, when he conferred with him at Mt. Prospect Monday night.

They asked his cooperation in having Dundee avenue paved south of Hillside avenue to the intersection of the two streets.

Mr. Busse advised Trustee Carroll, representing Village President Earl Hart, that he would support the delegation's request. All but 12 exhibit spaces had been sold prior to Monday evening, and indications are that the rest will be sold before opening of the show.

A queen of the festival will be conducted in connection with ticket sales. Dr. Kleinwachter, president of the club, announced Wednesday. Buyers of tickets can cast votes for their favorite candidates for queen.

Grand Jury to Hear Scott Case Sept. 20

A Cook county grand jury will hear charges of grand larceny against Mrs. Nellie Scott, local woman, who was bound over for a hearing of $10,000 bond last month on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Mrs. Scott will appear on three charges of grand larceny. She is charged with having taken jewelry and other valuables from local homes while employed as a cook and housemaid.

In addition to asking that the present strip of railroad road be paved, the local delegation requested the county to put curbing on both sides of Dundee avenue from Main street to Hillside avenue.

The latter would protect young trees planted along the street so they would not be run down by cars and would simplify the maintenance of parkways.

A resolution is to be presented at the village board meeting Monday night, Mr. Carroll said, in order to push the project along quickly.

Valuable Gifts at Cooking School at Catlow Sept. 22-24

Cook Book for Every Guest; Free Admission Tickets at Stores

Women who plan to attend the Review cooking school next week should read the advertisements in this and next week's issues of the newspaper which tie up with the school. Many good food sales will be included in the ads next week. Many suggestions on other subjects as well as on food are included this week.

Many lucky women are going to carry home guest prizes from The Review's motion picture cooking school next week, ranging in value from the cost of a can of Spry or 5-lb. bag of Pillsbury's flour to a toaster-makewell breakfast set, with a retail tag of $17.95, plus tax.

Prizes will be given away hand for the women who attend "Star in My Kitchen" on one or more of the three days. More are coming in daily from manufacturers of nationally advertised products and from local stores. A partial list of daily door prizes and grand prizes is printed later in this article.

But to review the main facts for "Star in My Kitchen" is a complete motion picture sparkling with humor and romance and containing plenty of suspense. It will be shown at the Catlow theatre, under the auspices of The Review and Barrington merchants Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 22, 23 and 24 starting promptly at 2 o'clock each day, with the greatest opening at 1:30.

Admission will be 50 cents for the daily ticket, $1.00 for the three-day ticket. The picture is also a cooking school with some 30 late recipes and the planning and serving of several meals demonstrated. The preparation of new dishes — dreaming, mixing, folding, baking — are shown in close-ups; so that every guest at the theatre, regardless of where she sits, can see all details clearly.

So that the guests will not forget the amount of flour or milk or seasoning in each preparation, they will be given a recipe booklet, printed at The Review office and containing every dish prepared in the picture as well as a number of others. It is hoped that the quantity of booklets printed will be sufficient for one to each guest, but there will be distributed the first and second days and third if possible.

The prizes will include door prizes awarded after each of the three performances, and grand prize awarded at the finale Saturday afternoon.

The grand prizes include two-axle automatic ejector toasters, master set with tray and jam dishes, printed in the colors of the Good Housekeeping logo, a beautiful lamp from the Public Service Co. and an aluminum-bound, indexed cook book with 249 recipes from Pillsbury Flour Mills. A partial list of the daily prizes includes packages of snow sheen cake, packages of farina, boxes containing assortments of quince preserves, boxes of peach preserves, boxes of assorted jams and boxes of lux and rison soaps, 3 large cans of soy, 10 5-lb. bags of Pillsbury's flour, assortments of Foley's hardware including food mill, mincer, can opener and three mixing forks. All of the above are from the manufacturers.

Local prizes include a gallon can of spray paint donated by Miller Oil Co., a foot-in-the-garbage can donated by the Gamble Service.

Buckeye Ignites Gasoline Waste gasoline on the garage floor was ignited Thursday morning when the car owned by H. K. Tucker, 536 Grove avenue, bucked while the motor was being started. The blaze was extinguished by Mr. Tucker immediately. No damage was done.

"Toe Games"

By LYDIA LION ROBERTS
In these civilised times many children never experience the peculiar happiness of Whittier's "Barefoot Boy" and are, indeed, quite unacquainted with their own chief instruments of locomotion. Some afternoon when the children must remain in the house let them take off their shoes and stockings and play toe games. They will be surprised and delighted at the possibilities contained in the "five little pigs" so interesting to them in their babyhood days. The games will keep them interested for a long time, and the exercise and training will be physically beneficial.

Let them literally "toe the line" by stretching a string across the floor and making a "stunt" of toeing the full length of the string without using heels or leaving the line. It is great fun if this is done three or four times and a little faster each time. A variation of this game might be to have a child tiptoe along the string while someone counts ten—first slowly and then very fast.

Have someone put a sheet of wrapping paper on floor and give every child a pencil. Then ask each to write a letter of the alphabet, holding the pencil between his toes instead of his fingers. This will be the cause of much merriment as results are shown. The games may be varied by having the children draw pictures using two pencils, one with each foot. If the games are played in the kitchen or on an old blanket or on linoleum where a few minor accidents will do no harm, let the children use paints and try to paint pictures holding the brush as they try to paint pictures holding the brush as they held the pencil.

Another game that is fun is for the children to try to pick up things, such as a washcloth, a paper or a marble using only these same members. Still another is

Gave John Sherman Office

John Sherman of Manfield, congressman, secretary of the treasury and attorney for the state, only wished an interest in real estate, but his friends didn't hold high hopes for his future. For example, in 1948 he was a delegate to the national Whig convention in Philadelphia. At the convention was being organized, the chairman of the Ohio delegation asked this learned man in order to select him to speak. Sherman, in reply to the question, "Who is the chairman of the convention?" he was a young man who could never get an office unless the convention gave him one, the Ohio chairman said. So Sherman was chosen secretary.

Royal Misters

The eldest son of the Prince of Wales bears the title of Prince of Wales and ranks next to the king in male precedence, but younger sons of the sovereign, though born royal, have no precedence beyond their near relationship to the king, until a dukedom is conferred upon them, when they become peers of the realm, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. Young children, the brothers and sisters, the sisters-in-law, and the uncles and aunts of the king are entitled to be addressed as "Royal Highness." In the past this title has passed on indefinitely to all direct descendants of a king's son. But by the ruling of King George V, the title is confined to the children and grandchildren of the sovereign. The result will be that certain members of the royal house may in the future be plain Mr. or Miss Windsor.

Shirley Temple Is Star of Week-End Feature at Catlow

Young Trouper Here Sunday and Monday in "Little Miss Broadway"

Adding new laurels to their fame as topnotchers among Hollywood's ace song writers, the late Dick Whitfield and Johnny Mercer wrote three hits for "Cowboy From Brooklyn," the new comedy with music which comes to the Catlow Friday and Saturday.

The Whiting-Mercer songs bear the interesting titles of "Ride, Tenderfoot, Ride," "I'll Dream of Music" and "I've Got a Heart Full of Music." The dream the cast are Pats O'Brien, Dick Powell and Priscilla Lane.

Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production chief, has surrounded his Number One star, Shirley Temple, with a stellar cast in her new musical, "Little Miss Broadway," opening Sunday for two days at the Catlow. George Murphy, Phillips Brooks, Edna Mae Oliver, George Barbier, Edward Ellis, Jane Darwell, El Brendel, Donald Meek, Patricia Wilder and Claude Gillingwater Sr. are included.

The warm response with which the movie-going public welcomed Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane as a new screen romantic team, has resulted in another co-starring picture for the two charming youngsters—"Men Are Such Fools," which comes Tuesday to the Catlow.

One the double feature bill Tuesday also is George O'Brien in "Painted Desert."

All the credit lavished on the film drama, "Always Goodbye," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall, should go to his five-year-old chief deputy assistant, declared Director Sidney Lanfield.

He is none other than winsome, blue-eyed little Johnnie Russell, the youngster who was whisked from obscurity to a key role in the drama featuring Ian Hunter, Cesario Romero, Lynn Bari and Blanche Barnes and opening Wednesday at the Catlow.

Johnnie kept a critical eye on Director Lanfield and school, and one of the film veterans commands to crew and cast. Lanfield was particularly grateful the little lad's keeping the entire company on the set all the time.

Violet Umbdenstock Weds T. Peden Jr. in Lovely Setting

LAKE ZURICH.—White tapers in candelabra, ferns and bouquets of white lilies and blue delphinium about the altar of the St. Peter Evangelical church formed the setting for the wedding ceremony of Miss Violet Lydia Umbdenstock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Umbdenstock of Glimer, and Thomas Edward Peden Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peden of Countryside. The service was read by the Rev. Benjamin Freese at seven o'clock Saturday, Sept. 10.

The Lohengrin wedding march played by Miss Anna Berghorn preceded the service and the Mendelssohn march was the recessional.

The Ten-Gallon Hat

According to legend the 10-gallon hat was named because it was used as a water bucket and also to carry food. And at night the cowboy even rested his weary head on his "10-gallon pillow." Although all the "gallon" hats were pretty much the same size, they were called not only 10-gallon, but also one, two and three-gallon hats, varying with the imagination of the Western story writer.

Woman Hurt in Auto Crash Sunday; Book Driver on Charge

Mrs. Nellie Marquadt, 220 Nagle Avenue, Chicago, received a fractured left shoulder, and cuts about the face when the car in which she was riding was struck by a machine driven by K. L. Oberland, 1420 Garden Place, Waukegan, at the intersection of Northwest highway and Hough street early Sunday morning.

Oberland, who admitted to Chief of Police E. W. Baude, who investigated the crash, that he failed to observe the stop sign as he was traveling west on Hough street, was booked for reckless driving and will appear before Police Magistrate A. D. Church Saturday.

Mrs. Marquadt was a passenger in the car owned by her son-in-law, George Eichman, 22 W. Harding road, Lombard. Eichman's car was hurled by the impact into the side of a car owned by Dr. A. G. Glasek, 301 Grove Avenue, and driven by Dr. W. G. Glasek, associated with Dr. Glasek. The Glasek car halted at the intersection waiting for traffic to clear when the accident happened.

Mrs. Marquadt, after receiving medical aid here, was taken to the Sherman hospital in Elgin.

No one was injured when a Brandt Dairy truck driven by Joseph Shabo of Barrington and a car driven by Orville Wetmore, 20 E. Cedar street, Chicago, collided at

Review History of Fire Department

fire station that stood where the pumping station is now located East Station Street. The first village water tower, built in 1898 and 409 Spring street, had an unusually distressing time early last Thursday morning.

Whenever a fire occurred, it was necessary to go to the station and sound the fire bell. Upon arrival of the fire fighters the first team of horses located on the streets was pressed into service and used to haul the hook and ladder truck. The hose cart was pulled by hand by the volunteers.

Veterans of the group, who lived some distance from Station Street, were forced to run to the station in order to be ready for service. By the time they arrived, they often times were too fatigued to be of much assistance.

The first gasoline truck was purchased in 1919 and this was replaced with the present truck in July of 1926. The rural community truck was purchased on June 12, 1938. The rural equipment was purchased from subscriptions collected in the country areas while the village equipment was bought with finances received from the village board.

Highlights in the 40-year history of the department were the major fires that caused the greatest amount of damage. They included the Bowman Dairy building, Pomeroy and Co. mill, Barrington Laundry, Plage and Co. elevator, Sod building, M. Peck building, M. T. Landers building, Shabot mill, Jewel Tea explosion, Grot building, Public Service Co. substation, Schwemmi barn, Holmes farm barn, Locomotive Terminal plant.

There were several other major fires in this community, the burning of the Landwer Mock and the Lamey property on East Main street, but they occurred before the organization of the department, which boasts that not a single residence in town was lost by fire.

Honors were paid to H. T. Schroeder at the celebration Friday evening for his 40 years of continuous service in the department. He served as chief for several terms and was secretary for a number of years. Honored with Mr. Schroeder was Sam Landwer, also one of the charter members, who has 20 years of service to his credit. Mr. Landwer withdrew from the department during the time he served as rural mail carrier.

Both Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Landwer were presented with leather billfolds by members of the unit. They also were materially responsible for the collection of historical data of the department that was presented at the party.

Victor Rieke, chief of the department, was chairman of the program and Walter Seavers assisted him. Walter Ahrens, chairman, Kenneth Grebe, Orville Wente prepared the study.

In addition to Mr. Rieke and Mr. Seavers, other officers are: Oliver Hollister, assistant chief and H. E. Kuhlman, treasurer.

There were six men who died during the time they were members of the department. They were: Emil Naeher, who was electrocuted while working at the Robertson and Plage power plant in 1902, August Miller, Walter Lageschulte, Henry Rohrmeier, Ernest Rieke and Herbert Homut.

State Inspectors Here
J. W. Thompson, supervisor of the state board of vocational education, and G. W. Cuhman, assistant supervisor, visited the Barrington public school Wednesday morning and inspected the vocational arts department. They expressed their satisfaction at the work being done here.

Local Girl Reports Being Held Up Near Half Day Thursday

According to a report filed with the Lake county sheriff's office, Miss Jeanette Kamp, 20 years old, of 409 Spring street, had an unusually distressing time early last Thursday morning.

Miss Kamp, according to the records, was out riding with Cliff Ford, McCay, 19, of 411 E. Washington street, and Edward Hometh of Des Plaines, all in McCormick place.

Following an argument between the youths while they were riding near Libertyville, both McCay and Hometh got out and started walking along the highway while Miss Kamp drove the automobile herself, it is reported.

Somewhere near Half Day three men in an automobile stopped her and held her up, getting a $10 bill and $5 worth of jewelry. One of the men, the youths reported, wasn't a gentleman, for he struck her and gave her a black eye.

She was unable to furnish the police with any description of the hold-up men or the car in which they were riding.

Missionary Society Rally Here Friday

The 1938 rally of Missionary societies of the Evangelical churches of Prairie View, Deerfield, Highland Park, Northfield and Barrington will be held at Salem church Friday, Sept. 14.

Miss Susan M. Baperstein, a missionary from Japan, will be the guest speaker.

Lunches will be served to W.M.S. members and their guests at noon and there will be a brief social hour before the continuance of the rally.

Mother of Mrs. E. Bernardoni Dies

Mrs. Wilhelmina Hein, mother of Mrs. Ella Bernardoni of Barrington, died at her home in Elgin Wednesday after having been in poor health for a year. She was 65 years old.

Funeral services will be held at her late home at 2 p.m. Friday with Rev. H. T. Meyer officiating. Burial will take place at Oakland cemetery.

Whenever a fire occurred, it was necessary to go to the station and sound the fire bell. Upon arrival of the fire fighters the first team of horses located on the streets was pressed into service and used to haul the hook and ladder truck. The hose cart was pulled by hand by the volunteers.

Veterans of the group, who lived some distance from Station Street, were forced to run to the station in order to be ready for service. By the time they arrived, they often times were too fatigued to be of much assistance.

The first gasoline truck was purchased in 1919 and this was replaced with the present truck in July of 1926. The rural community truck was purchased on June 12, 1938. The rural equipment was purchased from subscriptions collected in the country areas while the village equipment was bought with finances received from the village board.

Highlights in the 40-year history of the department were the major fires that caused the greatest amount of damage. They included the Bowman Dairy building, Pomeroy and Co. mill, Barrington Laundry, Plage and Co. elevator, Sod building, M. Peck building, M. T. Landers building, Shabot mill, Jewel Tea explosion, Grot building, Public Service Co. substation, Schwemmi barn, Holmes farm barn, Locomotive Terminal plant.

There were several other major fires in this community, the burning of the Landwer Mock and the Lamey property on East Main street, but they occurred before the organization of the department, which boasts that not a single residence in town was lost by fire.

Honors were paid to H. T. Schroeder at the celebration Friday evening for his 40 years of continuous service in the department. He served as chief for several terms and was secretary for a number of years. Honored with Mr. Schroeder was Sam Landwer, also one of the charter members, who has 20 years of service to his credit. Mr. Landwer withdrew from the department during the time he served as rural mail carrier.

Both Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Landwer were presented with leather billfolds by members of the unit. They also were materially responsible for the collection of historical data of the department that was presented at the party.

Victor Rieke, chief of the department, was chairman of the program and Walter Seavers assisted him. Walter Ahrens, chairman, Kenneth Grebe, Orville Wente prepared the study.

In addition to Mr. Rieke and Mr. Seavers, other officers are: Oliver Hollister, assistant chief and H. E. Kuhlman, treasurer.

There were six men who died during the time they were members of the department. They were: Emil Naeher, who was electrocuted while working at the Robertson and Plage power plant in 1902, August Miller, Walter Lageschulte, Henry Rohrmeier, Ernest Rieke and Herbert Homut.

58 Sheep Killed at Jewel This Week

From the licensing of farm dogs in the county, is kept for purpose of paying off claims. Therefore, an occasional claim has been presented to the county for the loss of a cow, horse or sheep, by dogs but the casualties of the past week resulted in the largest claim ever allowed by the county for Custer township.

Appraisers were appointed by H. D. Kehley, supervisor of the town of Cuba, and Harry Wash, supervisor of the town of Elia, in whose jurisdiction the case fell, following the killings. They placed the value of the ewes at $5 and the lambs at $6 each. W. Overbeu, C. F. Miller, J. J. Cland and A. F. Grom made the appraisals.

Fred C. Fleming, official of Jewel Tex Co., reported a watchman would again be placed over the flock and stated that any dog found on the company property, whether in the daytime or night, would be shot.

TOO MUCH WHEAT AND COTTON

The United States has on hand a surplus of 100 million bushels of wheat, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has been negotiating with Canada, as well as collaborating with Secretary Hull concerning, "what's to be done about it." The Canadian trade treaty stands in the way of our agricultural plan to subsidize a wheat export program to get rid of the country's towering surplus of wheat. Canada is already carrying out a dumping program in which it guarantees its farmers 80 cents a bushel on the 1938 crop. Secretary Wallace is seeking cooperation with Canada in this matter, in order, he says, to preserve the interests of both countries.

The department of agriculture has a terrific problem on hand, and it is moving heaven and earth to sustain the program for an ever-normal granary.

Cotton is also involved in our national difficulties since the market price has dropped below 8.25 cents a pound set in the farm act, which makes cotton loans by the government mandatory. Presumably wheat and cotton loans will be about 50 per cent of parity.

The government already has about 7 million bales of cotton on its hands.

CHANGE OF UNDERWEAR REASONABLE

Bruce Barton, well known author and advertising man, who was recently elected to congress, said a short time ago: "Prosperous railroads are such good customers of American business, and creators of jobs, that we cannot afford to let the carriers remain in the poorhouse where they are now. I am not yet familiar with the specific governmental policies that are harming them most, but I know they are being harmed by government, because government has been monkeying with them longer and more deeply than it has with any other business."

"Certainly when an industry which provides the best rail freight service in the world at the lowest average rates in the world, finds nearly 100 per cent of its constituent companies and 28.1 per cent of its total mileage in the hands of receivers or trustees, it is time to 'Stop, Look, and Listen.'

"Sound governmental regulation of railroads must, of course, continue . . . It must make the rules, but at least the players are entitled to their board and an occasional change of socks and underwear."

The remarkable part of the railroad situation isn't that the lines are facing the severest crisis in their history, but that they have managed to survive at all during the past eighteen years—most less progress and develop as they have done. Government has "monkeyed" with them in every phase of operation, has taken over the role of management, and has placed almost every conceivable barrier in the way of fair earnings. The fruits of years of such a policy are apparent today, with railroad revenues decreasing, costs rising, and the players, to use Mr. Barton's illustration, in need of a square meal.

Business will rejoice if the railroads are given the rate increase they have requested of the ICC, because there can't be any sound and widespread prosperity in this country so long as our largest single industry is kept in an economic bind.

WHY HUNT ALIBIS?

A stranger in our country, reading current political attacks on American industry, could not be blamed for coming to the conclusion that the executive management of our industries has been not only a dismal failure, but a menace to the nation.

Management of private enterprise in the United States, from hot dog stands to railroads and utilities, has been largely taken over by politicians, who without a blush profess to know more about such industries than do the men who have put their money and their lives into the building up of productive properties.

A great argument has been going on nationally about why the investment market is drying up. Is the question so complex as many claim? Do your own analyzing.

For example, you elected John Jones to congress. The chances are ten to one that you know John Jones isn't a particularly good business man in his home community, even though he was a good enough politician to get your vote. Would you employ Congressman Jones to invest your personal savings? Would you hire him, because of his outstanding business record, to manage your business? Chances are ten to one you would not. And yet, thousands of John Joneses in high political offices, are today, in effect, usurping practically every phase of operation and management of American industry, even though they have had no experience with the industries they presume to manage, and do not assume any financial or tax responsibility.

Is it possible that such "political management" of industry has anything to do with the reticence of Mr. Joe Citizen to invest his money?

Possibly the American investor has become fearful of political tinkering with business. Possibly this simple reasoning has something to do with "the general feeling" of fear which blocks investments for expansion of industry under a trend which takes management away from those who put up the money and hold the sack.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

A re-examination of the direct primary system of nominating candidates for office is under way. President Roosevelt brought it about by arranging republicans who vote in democratic primaries.

While it is perfectly legal for a member of one party to participate in the primary of another where possible, the president contended on August 22 that such action was "politically immoral." He based the contention on the ground that the will of the majority of party voters in a state could be frustrated by that means.

The historic objective of the direct primary is to assure that the candidate nominated is the real choice of the party members. The system was inaugurated 70 years ago in Crawford County, Pa., to get away from nominating conventions dominated by political bosses.

Reformers took up the plan. Its spread at first was slow. But after Wisconsin and Oregon established state-wide primaries by law in 1904, a majority of states quickly followed suit.

The convention system of nomination is now used exclusively in only three states — Connecticut, New Mexico and Rhode Island. A few of the remaining states give party committees an option of using the primary or the convention method, but generally speaking the primary method is used even in those states.

Discussing the present situation, the president said: "I believe that the use of conventions for primaries was foremost when he was elected to the New York legislature more than 25 years ago. The law which was enacted sought to restrict participation in the primaries of a party to the bona fide members of that party. If this was not done, Mr. Roosevelt said, a candidate not representative of the party might be nominated."

Under the "closed primary," a voter is subjected to some sort of test as to his party allegiance before being allowed to cast a ballot. This system prevails in 40 states, including Georgia and Maryland, where there have been reports that republicans would support the renomination of anti-new deal senators.

The test varies. Frequently a voter is subjected to some sort of test as to his party allegiance at the time of registration suffice. In a number of states a voter must swear to party loyalty. In others, mostly in the south, party membership is left to the determination of party committees.

The test is different in the five states having "open primaries" — Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Washington and Wisconsin. A voter can vote for whom he pleases and in secrecy. Advocates of this system claim it is an improvement over the "closed primary."

The comparative size of votes cast in Minnesota in June resulted in assertions that democrats and republicans had entered the Farmer-Labor primary. Mr. Roosevelt said the recent totals in Idaho showed republicans had voted in the democratic primary. It was not a question of which party gained or lost, he added, but one of principle.

Some democrats expressed the opinion that he was laying groundwork for an attempt to bring about federal regulation of primaries for nomination to national office.

The support being given advocates of liberal old age pensions in the primary campaigns, particularly in the south and west, is causing concern within the administration.

The inclination among the responsible officials until recently was not to press the question. Apparently sensing what was coming, President Roosevelt asked the social security board several months ago to prepare recommendations for liberalizing the present provision for federal pensions.

The reported intention was to let the matter rest there. But now a different course is being taken, negative as against advocates of "short-cuts to Utopia or fantastic financial schemes" is the order of the day.

Why the change?

Beginning in Alabama and Florida, advocates of federal or state generosity to the aged have found profit in terms of votes. Pension talk along with strains of a hill-billy band helped Mr. Lee O'Daniel win the gubernatorial nomination in Texas. The democratic candidate supported by the Townsend pension organization won the senatorial nomination in Idaho.

After conferences with advisers, President Roosevelt decided to strike out. At the state he spoke in Atlanta, he called the "short-cutters." On August 26, however, he got down to cases.

Little had been said about how the proposed pensions would be financed. A plan popular in California was an exception, however, and provided an opportunity. It sounded fine to talk about "thirty dollars every Thursday" for people over 50 years of age. Mr. Roosevelt said, but the idea was "fantastic" when it came to paying the cost.

The taxes would fall more heavily on the poor than on the rich, in his opinion. Furthermore, there were doubts of the legality of the plan, and it was not clear that the constitutional power to coin money.

Payments under this plan would not be in dollars but in scrip, negotiable only in the state. Financing would be by a requirement that a two-cent state stamp—purchaseable only with "real money"—be attached to the scrip certificate for each dollar of its value every week for a year.

The theory is that $1.04 in taxes thus would be paid each year for each dollar of scrip issued. In effect redeeming the scrip and providing for administration expenses of the plan.

The social security board called the plan unworkable before the plan was worked up. The board said it would necessitate the issuance of scrip with a face value of $1,560,000,000 each year, nearly four times the state and local tax collections in 1936, and threaten the financial integrity of California.

A collapse of California finances, the board added, "would jeopardize the continuance of old-age assistance payments now being made to 117,000 aged Californians, toward which the federal government contributes about $20,000,000 per annum."

The plan is reported to have upwards of 800,000 supporters in California. Voters will decide whether to accept or to reject it in November. Referenda on pension proposals also will be held in several other states.

Meanwhile, white house advisers are framing recommendations aimed, at least, to satisfy pension sentiment in the next congress. How far these recommendations will go is a subject of conjecture.

Arabs First to Respect

the Value of Gibraltar

Even in the days when military power was in its infancy the rock of Gibraltar, rising sheer 1,400 feet, appealed to the imagination of the ancients, who called it, together with its companion, Gebel-el-Tarik, or Hercules. In olden days it was left the solitary giant alone to his meditations, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

The Arabs were the first to recognize the rock's strategic value. As Moors they crossed the strait in 711, christening it Gebel-el-Tarik, or the mountain of Tarik, their leader's name. They constructed a castle and eventually conquered the whole peninsula.

Nine hundred years later the last Moors was expelled from Spain and he left it where the original one had landed, in the bay of Gibraltar.

The decline of the Spanish empire the rock passed into British hands.

Napoleon tried to take it when he was building his empire but failed. Thus was created the phrase, "as strong as the rock of Gibraltar."

Spice of Health

During the Middle Ages it was as popular as any flavoring medium that spices were used, and as such were commercially great value. They were also prized because of their aromatic properties.

Afterwards the use of spices for medicinal purposes was commonly supposed to be the cause of bad odors. Spices are a safeguard against disease, for now we know that they have a definite antiseptic value, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. Oil of cloves, for instance, acts as an antiseptic even as weak a dilution as 2 parts in 1,000. It is also believed that a solution of 4 parts in 1,000, though acidic, ceases to have any antiseptic value when 5.6 parts are mixed in 1,000 of water.

Otter Once Held Sacred

Because He Killed Frogs

The otter has a scheme of his own to fill his hours with happiness. He doesn't care to walk on the ice. Instead, he throws himself on it and slides. He loves to slide down steep hills into the water. The banks are slippery or for that matter, are very slippery, and most of the neighbors throw ashes on them.

The otter has a big place in history, asserts Lee Eubanks in Our Dumb Animals. Ancient Persians held him sacred because he killed frogs, which overrun Persia. The men who had an otter had to go out and kill 40,000 frogs. If he refused, his punishment was severe. Indeed, the otter goes back to pre-Biblical days. In old Sanskrit he was called an udra. Mid-European countries called him under, otter, and finally otter.

The rare sea otter is born in the ocean, born sea in a bed of rip. An otter can swim 10 miles under the ice. He blows out air in a bubble directed against the ice. When the air strikes the ice its freshness is restored, and Mr. Otter draws it into his lungs again.

Though the otter is a good swimmer, he acquires the art. His parents must coax and coach him.
