WHAT IS DISHONESTY?

WHAT IS DISHONESTY?

Scandalmongers will in all likelihood be disappointed in the coming investigation of the Tennessee Valley authority. As Garet Garrett recently pointed out in an article in the Saturday Evening Post, "There is no black bag." Nobody has stolen vast sums of money.

The dishonesty involved in the TVA controversy is of a far more serious nature than simple embezzlement or theft of money. It involves the very integrity of government itself.

For example, the preamble to the act itself, creating the Tennessee Valley authority, dedicates TVA to the job of developing agriculture, flood control, redeeming marginal lands, providing for the national defense and other patently ands, providing for the national decease and other patents, constitutional undertakings. But, to quote Mr. Garrett: "Not a word about electric power in the preamble. Yet one-third of the entire text is devoted to the development and sale of power." Is this honesty in government?

Ever since its inception, the Tennessee Valley authority dertakings. But, to quote Mr. Garrett:

has pursued policies of out-right destruction in all dealings with private electric utilities. It has built tax-free, publicly subsidized, competing facilities and negotiates with the pri-vate utilities in the Tennessee Valley only on a forced sale basis. That is, if the private companies refuse to sell out at an arbitrary price, TVA, backed by the fist of government, promises to drive them out of business and wreck the investments of hundreds of thousands of stockholders, meanwhile carefully shying away from condemnation proceedings that would result in a fair and impartial settlement in court. Is this not sharp practice?

Most important of all, TVA is an insidious wedge that is introducing socialism in the United States unbeknown to the average voter. And this alone represents neither honesty nor decency in public life.

THE CONSUMER'S FOOD DOLLAR

Hector Lazo, vice president of the Cooperative Food Dis-tributors of America, recently proposed a "national platform" for food distributors of all kinds. Some of his points deserve d immediate cessation of agitation for all discriminatory tax laws, all legislative price-fixing laws, and all laws which attempt to freeze the channels of distribution and to lessen or eliminate competition. On behalf of his organization, he opposed "any law, regulation or governmental activity that will drive any legitimate competitors out of business, or will attempt to set prices by legislative fiat." And in conclusion, he said: "We reaffirm our belief that law can only guarantee a man equality to do for himself what others can do if match him in brains, efficiency and hard work. Beyond that any law that attempts to do more must be arbitrary and, as such, is against the ultimate good."

That is a sound American doctrine. Under a free comp titive system, any merchant gets the business he earns by his , ability and standards of price and service. The conbuys wherever he pleases. He can join a cooperative or he can patronize his neighborhood chain or independent store. And every one of these distributing agencies is con-tinually working to better its service and prices in order to attract trade. The result of that is an honest break for all con-et trade. The result of that is an honest break for all consined—and a better deal for the consumer.

Today the consumer's food dollar will purchase 28 per gnore than in 1929. Fair, open competition has been the ramining factor that brought that about. Limit retailing that the constant restrictions, destroy competition, hit distributional restrictions, destroy competition, hit distributions are constant as a supplied that the cost of living soar.

two years from now to seek a third momination from his party that will enable him to try for another four years in office? This question is proving far from academic. The third term idea is found to be reaching high up in the democratic party ranks. Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigans aid: "We may have to draft the president for four more years of Chishoma, announced his support for a third term. Harold L. Eckes, secretary of the interior, paproved the idea. Frances Perkins, secret-ary of labor, said that she had the idea. Frances Perkins, secretary of the interior, approved the idea. Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, said that she had spointedly asked Mr. Roosevelti I he was going to run again and the president's only response was to continue looking out of the window.

A group of Colorado miners presented the president with a petition urging that he seek four more years in office, and they went unrearbacked. Senator Barkley, demograted foor leader, told a Kentucky audience:

Mr. Roosevelt has publicly expressed his desire to step out of office to make way for a successor who will carry on his policles. An answer to that question can best be had from those whose business it is to appraise political valines. There is coming to be a definite measure of agreement among these men on one point. It is this: President Roosevelt would be ready to step saide in 1940 it he could be assured that control of the democratic party machinery still would rest in the hands of new deal sympathiers. If that assurance is not had, or if it appears that the conservative element within the party is to name the next nominee and to regain control of the party, then there is every chance that the president would go after the nomination himself.

This country's organized law-yers are found now to be edging toward the side of attack over an issue that is schulded to grow in importance and attention in the period ahead. The issue grows out of the func-tions of the growing number of al-phabetical agencies that adminis-ter federal laws.
