

Purchase of Seals May Be Deducted From Income Tax

Money subscribed for Christmas seals and health bonds may be deducted from income taxes, according to a statement received today from the collector of internal revenue by Joseph Wollner, Christmas seal chairman for Barrington. The Barrington health center is affiliated with the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county.

"The Christmas seal sale comes under the class of permissible deductions described as 'contributions to religious, educational and charitable institutions,'" according to Mrs. Wollner. She pointed out that it is important when making deductions on such contributions to specify on the report to what organization the money was given and for what purpose.

Mrs. Theodore B. Sachs, executive director of the institute, announced today that initial returns from the sale of Christmas seals are slightly above last year's. She interpreted returns of the first few days as "an indication of wholehearted support for continued efforts to wipe out tuberculosis entirely." The sale opened Thanksgiving day and will continue until January 1.

Miss Mary Samson Playing in College Christmas Fantasy

Miss Mary Samson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Samson, 237 W. Lake street, is this week putting the finishing touches on her role in "The Bluebird," a Christmas fantasy by Maeterlinck, which will be presented by the Purple Masquers, honorary theatrical group on the Cornell college campus, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10. The play, which is the third major production of the Cornell season, will be given in the Little Theatre of Cornell's Armstrong Hall of Fine Arts on the Mount Vernon, Ia., campus.

A junior at Cornell this year, Miss Samson is a major in the social science field. She is a member of the Thalian social group and participates in women's athletics.
