Two CIO Organizers Released on Bonds After Labor Battle

Oakley Mills of Waukegan and Ralph Austin of Woodstock, CIO organizers, were released on bonds Monday following their arrest Sunday night on charges of disorderly conduct, loitering and attempting to obstruct passage of persons into the Aleutic Die Casting plant in Woodstock. Their cases will be heard October 31.

A fight broke out Sunday evening between CIO pickets and an opposing group at the plant Sunday night and after the disturbance had been quelled by 50 special officers sworn in by Police Marshall Harold Kemerling, Mills and Austin were arrested.

No further trouble has occurred at the plant. Plant officials have refused to comment regarding the labor situation.

Slugged With Crank After Row at Dance

No complaint was signed against Pedro Carrizal of Lake Zurich following an altercation with Alfonso Del Rio, of Elgin, who was slugged over the head with an automobile crank early Sunday morning in Elgin. Both men had attended a Mexican dance in a hall in Elgin Saturday evening. They quarreled in the dance hall but were separated.

Del Rio told officers that when he left the hall and started home about 4 o'clock Sunday morning, Carrizal was waiting for him. A quarrel followed and Del Rio claims that he was struck over the head with a crank. He was taken to the Elgin police headquarters to receive medical attention for a scalp wound. Del Rio did not wish to sign a complaint.
